We Need An Airing

Washington, D.C.—Reliable foreign sources here give substance to the belief that Nikita Khrushchev was, of all things, under pressure for being soft on capitalism. His semi-hysterical fury, his boorish brutality of speech, grew out of a feeling he had been betrayed. He is too sophisticated an old revolutionist to be so aroused, but he was.

Khrushchev had sold his associates the idea he could win concessions from the West. He knew, when he was here last summer, that U.S. planes were flying over Russia on a once-a-month schedule. And he has said he almost brought it up at Camp David where he and President Eisenhower spent a weekend. He did not. He went back home, say the foreign sources, convinced there would be no more of it until the summit had succeeded or failed.

But to have a plane shot down and then to hear an announcement that the United States planned to continue these flights placed Khrushchev in a tight spot. He was suspect. He was soft on capitalism. He had not delivered. The word here is that one of the Stalinists suggested in a meeting of the council that Comrade Khrushchev had been taken in by the imperialists. They had, it was said, made a fool of him.

In a Rage

So he went to Paris in a rage. The Chinese were saying, "We told you so." The Soviet army was angry because it knew the four years of U2 flights had given us much information. And Khrushchev was the fellow who was playing ball with the capitalists. But he also is the man most popular with the people so, with his political future, and maybe his life, at stake, he reacted as expected. He reportedly told neutral representatives in France that President Eisenhower had double-crossed him and betrayed him. Gen. de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan also had the same charge from the near apoplectic leader of communism.

This is one half the story.

The other half is also a sad one. The fact the Russians were first in the U.N. with an appeal to the Security Council to rebuke the United States for a violation of Soviet borders is an example. The Soviets took the initiative. They hold it. The plausible U.S. open-sky plan was 24 hours late reaching the U.N.

Official Washington

Official Washington is doing what it feels it must. It is rallying in support of the country. It is angry and grim because of Khrushchev's vulgar insults. But while it is not saying so in public, it is a worried Washington. A sorrowing congressman of considerable stature said privately that, if the head of a corporation had shown as great a lack of knowledge of what was going on as the President has revealed, an angry board of directors would ask for his resignation. Washington is puzzled. It does not dislike the President. On the contrary, it has affection for him. But where was he?

There was first the official denial of any intelligence flight. There followed the President's statement that we had made reconnaissance flights and they would continue. The vice president went on the air in support of the President's position. But almost at the same hour, the President was assuring our allies and Khrushchev that we would not make further flights. On the same Sunday night the secretary of Defense ordered a national alert, which alarmed the whole nation needlessly and thereby added another chapter to a story of needless folly.

There is no blinking the fact that the administration has shown alarming, incredible incompetence. What we badly need is a national debate on national security and foreign policy. It will be a real disservice to the nation if the Congress decides not to say anything, but to present merely a solid front of support. We need to have an airing. Why were we so desperately haphazard and so destructive of our national credibility? Why did we play into the hands of Khrushchev at the moment of his crisis?

State Offering Bomb Reward

Gov. Vandiver offered a $500 reward Thursday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of dynamiters who blew up a Negro house in Ringgold, killing a woman and injuring her husband and baby son.

Governor Says Patrol Halted Riot

By GENE BRITTON

Gov. Vandiver Thursday gave credit to state troopers—whom he had ordered to guard the Capitol—for preventing violence in an anti-segregation demonstration by Negro students Tuesday.

He also said he has ordered one of his legal aides to make a careful review of state laws which grant tax exemptions to Negro colleges.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. suggested Wednesday it might be well to revoke exemptions of such institutions when they permit their students to engage in activities which indirectly cost the state money.

Vandiver indicated at his semi-weekly news conference Thursday he liked the idea. He also agreed with Thrasher as to the estimated cost of the demonstration.

Thrasher put the figure at $70,000—including $10,000 for the 80 or more state troopers, plus about $60,000 in man-hours lost as a result of state workers spending much of the work day looking out office windows for the expected demonstration.

Asked if he thought Thrasher's estimate was a little high, he said he certainly wasn't going to argue with an auditor about such things.

While city officials—including the mayor—have been praising

The governor condemned the outrage as a "dastardly act."

"The bombing of a home and the resultant murder of a mother of four children is a cowardly and heinous thing, repugnant to all law-abiding and law-respecting citizens," Vandiver said.

The blast ripped apart the five-room frame house of Jethro Green, a 39-year-old Negro mechanic, about 1:05 a.m. Thursday. Green's wife, Mattie, 32, was killed, and Green and a baby were injured. Three other children in the house escaped injury.

Both the Georgia Bureau of Investigation and the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined Catoosa County Sheriff J. D. Stewart in investigating the blast.

But Sheriff Stewart said Thursday that no leads have been turned up. He said it appeared that between 25 and 30 pounds of

Queen Mother Is Reported Seeking to Wed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Queen Mother Elizabeth would like to marry if she can get the approval of her daughter, Queen Elizabeth II, the New York Daily News reported Thursday night.

The News quoted sources close to British royal circles in London that the man she would take for her second husband is Sir Arthur Penn, 74, treasurer to the Queen Mother's household. Penn also is her groom-in-waiting and extra equerry, the News said.

The Queen Mother, 59, was widowed eight years ago by the death of King George VI. The News said Penn has been a lifelong friend of the Queen Mother.

The seats for the new airport terminal waiting room will have millions of sitters after the new building opens, but one of the sample seats already has held the prettiest sitters any of the seats likely will hold.

The city's purchasing committee Thursday was at the old terminal building closely examining three samples of seats submitted by bidders for the seating contract. A Constitution photographer, Hugh Stovall, covering the story, decided the seats would look better if good-looking female sitters were sitting on them.

A PRETTY TEXAN

He found one pretty girl, Jo Ann Cook, of Texarkana, Tex., and sat her down on one of the seats. She's at the right in the above picture. He started looking for another pretty girl.

He found one—a lovely brunette. "Honey, you are about the prettiest girl I've ever seen here at the airport and I need you in a picture I've got to make," Hugh said—with a touch of the blarney that all photographers develop over the years.

"Wait a minute," said the beauty. "What's this all about?"

AN INTRODUCTION

Hugh explained the assignment. A representative of one of the airlines was standing by the pretty girl.

"Hugh," he asked, "Do you know who this pretty girl is?"

"No," Hugh replied, "but I know she's pretty."

"She's Mary Ann Mobley—Miss America of 1959!"

"I just told you she was pretty. Come on, honey let's get that picture."

So Mary Ann Mobley — and equally pretty Jo Ann Cook—graced the sample settee for a picture.

250,000 Cheer for Ike In Lisbon; Khrushchev Expresses Peace Hope

Suggests Summit in 8 Months

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived from Paris in worried, divided Berlin Thursday and spoke soothingly about another summit conference in six to eight months.

"It is clear," said the solemn Soviet Premier, "that the Soviet Union and other freedom-loving countries must analyze the consequences, but we do not renounce our policy of seeking a relaxation of tension and of peaceful coexistence."

ACCUSES U.S. AGAIN

But once more he accused the United States of wrecking the summit conference.

He arrived at the airport, outside East Berlin, and was greeted by top East German Communists and about 1,300 party functionaries. Then he rode into East Berlin past crowds of cheering thousands. West Berliners said it was the biggest reception he ever received in East Berlin.

Clouds were threatening, but the rain held off.

MILD SPEECH

"In this situation," Khrushchev said mildly, in an airport speech, "time is required, the effort of all peoples and governments is required to carry out a summit conference after six or eight months."

The tired-looking bespectacled man with his fringe of white hair read his speech in a dull, routine tone. The German translator who towered over him put a lot more emotion into his version.

Accusing the United States of torpedoing the summit conference, Khrushchev declared: "Obviously, in determining policy in the United States those circles have won the upper hand which want no reduction of international tensions and no removal of the danger of a new war."

But in speaking of a new summit conference after the U. S. election, he did not say anything about again demanding an apology.

Ike's Halt to Flights A Trick, Reds Say

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Soviet Union in a new memorandum Thursday night charged President Eisenhower's order calling off spy flights was a tactic to delude world opinion.

The Soviets also demanded that the U.N. Security Council condemn the United States for plane spying.

They put the U2 case before the U.N. Wednesday night with a demand for urgent Security Council action to stop spy flights.

President Eisenhower said in Paris Monday that he had ordered them stopped last Thursday.

The opening of the U2 case in the U.N. Security Council was set for Monday afternoon.

In his second note in two days to Security Council President Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko

Youth Shot In Chase by Policeman

A 17-year-old youth was shot and wounded at midnight Thursday when he and a group of others ignored a night watch policeman's command to halt.

Bennie Morris Patton of 497 Boulevard, SE, was admitted to Grady Hospital with a bullet wound through the abdominal wall. His condition was described as serious.

Patrolman B. J. Canup said he was walking behind some buildings at Chester street and Memorial drive, SE, when he saw a group of men standing behind one of the buildings and started towards them.

They started to run, Canup said, and he shouted several warnings to halt.

Canup said that while chasing the group he drew a service revolver to fire a warning shot into the air and that as he fired he tripped and fell. He said when he regained his feet he thought all the youths had escaped. A few moments later, he said, he heard someone say, "Hey, cap, I'm shot," and found Patton lying on railroad tracks nearby.

Ike Handed Khrushchev The Tools, Adlai Asserts

By DONALD JANSON

(Copyright 1960 by the New York Times Co.)

CHICAGO—Adlai E. Stevenson asserted Thursday night that Premier Khrushchev wrecked the summit conference but that the United States handed him the crowbar and sledgehammer to do it.

As the nation's responsible opposition, he said, the Democratic Party has an obligation to the country and to its Allies to expose and criticize the Eisenhower administration's "carelessness and mistakes."

There is too much at stake "to sweep this whole sorry mess under the rug in the name of national unity," the titular head of the Democratic Party told a fund-raising dinner meeting of the Cook County Democratic Party in a prepared address.

The party's presidential nominee of 1952 and 1956 said the world faced a "terrible danger" of nuclear war as a result of the crisis. This year's presidential campaign, he said, now will be waged "under the darkest shadows that ever hovered over the world."

As a result, he added, the ques-

Coast Line and Seaboard Agree on Terms for Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the South's largest railroads, the Atlantic Coast Line and the Seaboard Air Line, Thursday agreed on merger terms.

Directors of both roads, at separate meetings, approved the terms, which now must be acted upon by stockholders. The Interstate Commerce Commission also must consent.

Action of the Seaboard and ACL directors came only one day after the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Baltimore & Ohio railroads approved a stock exchange which could eventually result in a merger.

Several other railroads throughout the country are discussing mergers. The nation's railroad plant is being cut back under competition from other types of transportation.

The merged company would be known as the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad Co. John W. Smith, Seaboard president, would become chairman of the new company and W. Thomas Rice, ACL president, would become president.

Under the agreement Seaboard stockholders would retain their present shares, which would be equivalent to a share-for-share exchange for stock of the new company.

Holders of the common stock of ACL would receive 1.42 shares of the merged company for each share now held.

Directors of the new road would consist of 12 Seaboard directors and 13 ACL directors.

In Georgia, the two railroads now employ an estimated 4,000 persons and operate over 2,036 miles of track.

The ACL has approximately 2,000 employees and 1,089 miles of track in the state. Its largest facility is in Waycross, and includes switching yards and repair shops. Other ACL freight yards are in Savannah, Fitzgerald, Manchester and Atlanta. The Tilford

$1.25 Pay Floor Hearings End on Note of Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress completed lengthy hearings on minimum wages Thursday amid signs there might be a compromise on labor's demand for $1.25 an hour and broader coverage.

A House labor subcommittee ended nine weeks of public hearings with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and other business groups arguing that union proposals would raise prices and create more unemployment.

After similar hearings last year, a Senate labor subcommittee approved a union-backed bill to raise the minimum from $1 to $1.25 an hour and extend coverage to 10,700,000 more workers.

Pro-labor Democrats in the House fear they may have to scale down the $1.25 goal to get any legislation cleared for floor debate by the conservative-dominated Rules Committee.

Big 3 Win Support Of NATO

Khrushchev Hit
By 15 Nations

By ROBERT C. DOTY

(Copyright 1960, The New York Times Co.)

PARIS—The North Atlantic Treaty alliance moved solidly into line Thursday behind the Western Big Three in the dispute that led to the collapse of the summit conference.

The Council of Permanent Representatives of the 15-member states blamed Soviet Premier Khrushchev for preventing the four-power talks. The council approved a declaration by France, Britain and the United States that they remained ready to seek the solution of international disputes by negotiation and reaffirmed "the complete solidarity of the countries of the alliance."

The unanimity replaced the earlier atmosphere of severe—but private—criticism of the United States handling of events following the downing of a United States U2 reconnaissance plane deep inside Russia May 1.

The change resulted from what one NATO diplomat called the "calm and dignity" with which President Eisenhower announced the cessation of such flights and from revulsion against the brutal tactics of Khrushchev in employing the spy-plane incident as a pretext for breaking up the summit conference before it started.

Those Bricks A Brickbat, U.S. Finds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators Thursday accused the State Department of wasting money and losing friends when they shipped 138,000 fancy American bricks half way around the world for an addition to the U.S. Embassy in Canberra, Australia.

Rep. Hayes, chairman of a House foreign affairs subcommittee, said the C.O.D. cost of the bricks was 27 cents apiece—many times the cost of made-in-Australia bricks. "I think you could have saved a lot of money and resentment," Hayes told William P. Hughes, chief of State department construction. Hughes admitted he had been "horrified and surprised at the extra cost and shipping expenses."

But he maintained the contractor had been unable to find matching bricks in Australia and that shipping them from the United States was the only alternative.

Hayes disagreed. He quoted the Australian embassy here as saying bricks in Australia cost between three and seven cents each.

U.S. Drug Official Quits Under Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Henry Welch, who was reported to have augmented his federal pay with more than a quarter million dollars from other sources, quit his government job Thursday. He denied any wrongdoing.

Welch's resignation as $17,500-a-year chief of the Food and Drug Administration's antibiotics division was demanded by Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming.

In a letter of resignation to Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick, Welch defended his outside activities as editor and writer for medical and scientific journals.

"In a nonpolitical atmosphere the way to evaluate my editorial activities which had been approved and reapproved by my superiors, would be to review the publication," he said. "Like any editor, I may have made mistakes in judgments or evaluations, but I challenge anyone to search the journals and come up with any article, paragraph or sentence which reflects a lack of editorial or scientific integrity."

100 Listed Caught As Soviet Spies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressman gave the House a detailed "box score" Thursday on Soviet espionage which he said showed that nearly 100 Red agents have been caught spying on the United States and its Allies since World War II.

Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher (D-N.J.), a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the recent U.S. U2 spy plane episode was "child's play" compared to the widespread espionage activities of the Russians.

Gallagher said the number of Communist spies arrested in the free world is only a fraction of those operating on Russia's behalf. He said Western intelligence sources estimate that Russia at this moment has at least 17,000 spies active in free West Germany alone.

IN GERMANY, TOO

The congressman also said in a speech inserted in the Congressional Record that his figures on the number arrested, prosecuted or deported "does not include others whose capture may not have been revealed nor does it include the nearly 15,000 persons arrested since World War II for spying in West Germany."

Furthermore, Gallagher said, the Communists have kidnaped 255 persons from West Germany "for intelligence and other purposes." In addition, 23 of the nearly 100 spies arrested in Allied countries other than West Germany have been members of the Communist diplomatic corps, he said.

AIMED AT OUTRIES

His report was designed to rebut Soviet outcries over the U2 spy plane mission which Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev cited to demolish the summit conference with President Eisenhower in Paris this week.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) told the Senate it was "high time" the United States "laid down a list of dates and names" on Russians caught spying in this country.

He said such a dossier would show that no other country has been engaged in "such vast espionage" as Russia. The Russians have been spying "brazenly and we know it," Hickenlooper said.

U.S. Hints No Norway Spy Flights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State department broadly indicated Thursday that the United States has promised not to use Norway as a base for future spy flights over the Soviet Union.

Press officer Lincoln White declined, however, to specify exactly what assurances had been given to the NATO ally.

The Soviet Union claims that the U2 plane downed May 1 was destined from Pakistan to Norway. Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard M. Lange subsequently said it had been established that the U2 was headed for Norway's Bodo airfield. He protested to U.S. Ambassador Frances E. Willis and demanded that the United States avoid similar planned landings in the future.

Future Is Ringed By Question Marks

President Eisenhower comes home today from the wreckage of hope and peace in Paris.

The physical America looks just as it did when he departed less than a week ago. Washington is as beautiful as ever. Congress is still in session. Politics proceed as before. The American potential is as it was. But however much the tangible world is the same the intangible radically is altered.

As the President comes home the major question is: Where do we go from here? For the moment, there is an inevitable indecision. Not too much had been expected out of the Paris meeting but none had anticipated utter failure. Certainly no one had even imagined it would produce a Russia whose frenzied hostility would wreck and destroy the hope of international cooperation and substitute for it the threat of war.

Russia does know where she is going. We now are aware that Khrushchev's maneuvers in Paris were but the opening chapter of a new over-all Soviet plan which will intrude more and more into Latin America and Asia. But what the scope of it is and where it really leads, only the Russians now know.

It now becomes imperative that we begin to know what we must do. This is why the President's talk to the nation, which he will make next week, is so important. It will be most helpful if it deals not so much with a reply to the boorish, verbal brutality of Khrushchev, but gives this nation the harsh facts of life produced by the new Soviet hostility.

What chances, if any, are there to continue the Geneva talks about controlling atomic tests? Will it be necessary to proceed with an arms race? What will the next president of the United States inherit from the decisions of the days ahead? Will it be possible ever again to hold discussions with the Russians about world problems? How will this country reply to the Russian case before the United Nations Security Council? These are but some of the questions which must be answered.

Rep. Chester Bowles and other Democratic leaders think it necessary for the loyal opposition to create a debate on American policy so that out of it we may develop a national course. This is necessary because whatever policy we had expired at Paris. There must be honest criticism, these leaders insist, and less of the "for he is a jolly good fellow" mood.

What caused the bungling which enabled Khrushchev hypocritically to play the role of the injured innocent? What may we expect from our Allies, especially France and Britain? What is likely to be the future of our strategic bases in small nations made uneasy by Soviet threats? These are but a few of the items which require national discussion.

The public, long spoon-fed the idea that all is well and that the administration may be depended on to keep it so, is going to be shocked at some of the sacrifices we will need to make in the years ahead if the Soviet policy unfolds as anticipated. To waste the last seven months of the Eisenhower administration would be greatly to handicap the next president and his administration. They are critical months. That must be understood at the outset.

Preservation of Liberty Demands National Unity

One hundred years ago on May 18 in Chicago, Abraham Lincoln was nominated for the presidency. He was regarded as second choice. Sen. William Seward was the great favorite.

But something had spoken to the delegates and to the people whose emotions were reflected at Chicago. The Republican Party was a new one. It had participated in the 1856 election and been badly trounced. It could easily have been defeated in 1860 had it not been for the folly and vanity of man.

The Democrats had split up into three factions. The Southern wing had declared for maintenance and extension of slavery and justified it as approved of God and as being Christian. This was to arouse against them so much opposition, in Britain and in the North and West that they were doomed politically and militarily. Had there been Democratic unity Lincoln would have been defeated and Southernism would have remained dominant in the congressional committees.

But God moves in mysterious ways. Lincoln was nominated. The Union was preserved to grow into the nation it is now.

Today, as Lincoln was to say later at Gettysburg, it is for us the living to so dedicate ourselves that this Union, which is now threatened by great and hostile forces of communism, shall inspire a new birth of freedom and shall make any and every sacrifice demanded of us so that liberty shall not perish from the earth.

To accomplish this we cannot entertain divisive policies which do not conform to the ideals and the great dream of the Union and the dignity and freedom of man. For any party or faction to defend an immoral position which does harm to the nation's strength is as much a folly today as it was 100 years ago.

The pledge to the flag says it well—"one nation, indivisible under God, with liberty and justice for all."

Kennedy's Campaign Faces Another Test

Sen. Kennedy's campaign for the Democratic nomination will be further tested today in Oregon's primary. If he should defeat Sen. Morse in the latter's home state, Kennedy would greatly increase the probability of his nomination.

It is almost certain that Khrushchev's wrecking of the summit meeting will cause Americans to give more than ordinary thought to their political choice.

Sen. Kennedy's youth is likely to become a liability in a stepped-up cold war climate. It cannot be said the older leaders in the world today have demonstrated that age is any assistance in settling world problems but nonetheless, tensions do tend to cause people to look for maturity and experience in those whom they choose to govern.

This may become increasingly a Kennedy problem.

Dynamiting at Ringgold Is Affront to Decency

The bombing of a Ringgold home, in which a mother of six children was killed, is a shameful and shocking act of violence in its worst form.

The Negro family that occupied the house had lived in it for several years. They were well-liked in the community, according to reports from Ringgold, and as of this writing no motive has been discovered for the dynamiting.

As Gov. Vandiver said yesterday, the bombing is a cowardly and heinous thing which is repugnant to all law-abiding citizens.

The state has offered a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible. We hope the guilty will be brought to justice quickly.

Let it again be said that violence solves nothing. Decent citizens of Georgia must make it clear that atrocities will not be tolerated in this state.

Mass Transit Is Key To Unsnarling Traffic

The Atlanta Transit System continues looking to the future, as is evidenced by President Robert Somerville's proposal for operation of electric trains to bring commuters from the suburbs to the downtown area.

According to his estimates, it would be about 10 years from now before such a system could be put into operation.

Meanwhile, the transit company is proceeding with other plans which are expected to be announced this summer.

From such efforts it is hoped that means will be found to relieve present traffic congestion as well as to meet the demands of the rapidly growing community.

Mass transit facilities and making the best possible use of them are the only answers to solving Atlanta's traffic problems which are worsening as more and more cars vie for the limited space available for vehicular movement.

High Honors Accorded Two Atlanta Ministers

Two Atlanta ministers on the same day were elected to important offices. That they were so honored is a source of pride to their respective congregations and to others in the community.

Dr. Herman Turner, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian Church, was named moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. He is the first from the Deep South to hold the highest office in the Northern branch of the church.

Dr. Roy McClain, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was elected president of the Southern Baptist Pastors' Conference. This places him in favorable position to become the next president of the Southern Baptist Convention which meets next year in St. Louis.

Atlanta is noted for its excellent churches and pastors. The new honors bestowed upon two of its ministers add to that reputation.

Atlantan Says Soviet Espionage Attempts Should Be Made Known to Russian People

Atlanta — While Khrushchev was giving vent to his rage in Moscow and Paris, the Supreme Court of the United States was confirming for the second time a 30-year sentence of a Russian spy in the United States. But there is no international incident growing out of this spy's presence in America. He was caught and has been given the penalty after free access to all the laws. I can see no difference between flying over Russia at a great altitude and slipping into our country on the sea and on the ground. Nor was this the first time. It has been the history of our relations with the Soviets since the Russian revolution.

A paper should be issued giving all available details of this Russian espionage over the many years dating back to World War I. This should be broadcast in detail to the Russian people. Also, President Eisenhower's reply to Khrushchev should be broadcast throughout the world.

It will become scattered individuals among the political opposition to criticize the administration. It is to the everlasting credit of the majority of Democratic leaders that they stand squarely behind, not the Republican leader, but the president of the United States. I felt that candidate Kennedy, as the leading candidate at the moment, missed the boat on Khrushchev's wanting to postpone the conference until another president sat in the White House. As Khrushchev has expressed himself before on Nixon (thereby making votes for him), he undoubtedly meant a Democratic president. Had Kennedy said that there would still be a strong and able man in the White House after the election who would do all that is necessary to restrain the Communist menace, it would have had a quieting influence on Khrushchev.

Atlantan Disapproves Mountain Carving

Atlanta — The idea expressed by Lamar Dodd and the committee of artists about Stone Mountain is the finest yet and backs up the thinking of Edward Daugherty and other landscape artists, architects and civic planners who have worked so hard on the local level to keep the dear old mountain from being sheared, pared, cut or bored.

To carve up Stone Mountain, which is living rock, is just like tattooing the human body. It's like saying God's natural beauty isn't enough... man must improve on His handiwork.

It will cost thousands of unnecessary dollars to go carving and blasting around on the mountain.

Let's let the dear old girl rest in peace as far as her "face" is concerned and put our time and money on a good "foundation garment" and improve the surroundings of the mountain.

Error Was Damp Shame

Your pa and mine had a way of saying, "There's nothing like a fire or a move when it comes to house cleaning."

Which reminds me of the headline in Pittsburg: "Teacher Who Spanks 42 Fired by Board." The young man must have been fired with enthusiasm to start with. But as I started to say, a switch this week in title and duties meant a move and the move uncovered a box of yellowed clippings like this one:

The paper came out with the sentence: "A lot of water has gone under the bridge." The next week, the correction, "What we meant to say was, 'A lot of water has gone over the dam.'"

Those bridal showers no doubt.

OF ALL THINGS, from the same clippings repository: Sign in airport, "Please start kissing well in advance of departure time so the planes can leave on schedule." ... From Dr. John Anderson, minister in Orlando, but once in Dallas, "The only difference between a live wire and a dead wire is its connections." ... "It isn't surprising that the modern girl is a live wire, she carries practically no insulation." ... "Ice is one of the few things that is what it is cracked up to be."

JEST FOR TODAY: An employee found his pay envelope two dollars short and complained at the window.

"But you were overpaid two dollars last week," the payroll clerk reminded. "You didn't fuss about that."

"I know," said the employee, "I don't mind overlooking one mistake. But when it happens the second time, I think a man ought to complain."

The next item in the stack is about the graduate student at the state university who was applying for financial aid and was asked why.

"Because," he wrote into the blank, "my wife and I have separated and I am now my sole means of support."

Then there was the burglar whose wife kept pestering him for money. "Okay, okay," he gave in finally. "I'll get you some as soon as the bank closes."

Delaying Summit Won't Aid Russia

PARIS—Premier Khrushchev evidently hopes that after his latest war of nerves he can reopen direct negotiations with a new American government following our elections. During the intervening six to eight months—the time he truculently set—he expects to tighten his grip around Berlin and test the unity of NATO.

This is a fair inference to draw from his proclaimed schedule. Six months hence another president will have been chosen. Eight months hence another president will have been inaugurated. If this should be Nixon, Khrushchev will probably try and resume parleys with Eisenhower in six months, ignoring the tradition that a lame-duck president cannot commit his successor's policies. If someone else is chosen, Khrushchev will wait until January for further diplomatic contacts.

One must regard the currently tough Kremlin policy with a cool head. It suits Khrushchev to patch up relationships with his generals and with China and it also suits him to try and frighten some of our weaker allies. Simultaneously he expects to close the Berlin vise gradually without risking war.

Khrushchev relies upon time's soothing effect to help us forget our anger at his recent insults. He is apparently confident that the same desire for relaxation now prevailing will prevail again when he switches back to sweeter tactics. And he seems to feel he can exert an influence in our politics in the interim.

Khrushchev prefers Rockefeller as a Republican nominee. He regards Rockefeller as a charter member of the "big business" gang that secretly rules our country when the Pentagon isn't (as he imagines) in the driver's seat. He likes the idea of a capitalist with the typical name of capitalism heading a capitalistic state.

Moscow's picture of our country resembles the reflection in a warped Coney Island mirror. It is thought that when Adenauer visited Washington last February he managed to reverse American policy with the aid of bellicose Pentagon generals and Allen Dulles, the current bogeyman. The Russians claim Dulles is totally deceived about Soviet reality by agents who send him reports designed to suit his preconceived prejudices—as we say to them.

Khrushchev is confident that big business as represented by Rockefeller or Stevenson opposes the temporary Dulles-Pentagon-Bonn ascendancy. An important Soviet official confides: "Today your real secretary of state is not Herter but Adenauer."

Were Americans given to similarly tactless aphorisms, they might say Mao Tse-tung, not Khrushchev, currently guides Moscow.

The Eastern pot calls the Western kettle black. One may only hope our Kremlinologists are better informed than Moscow's American experts. We at least know that Soviet miscalculations outrun conception. In the meantime, the weary world is in for a series of chills. And Khrushchev will be disappointed to find, whether in six months or in eight, that our nation won't be seriously changed.

Suggestions Given On Married Life

At this time of year it is my privilege to talk with a number of young couples who are preparing for marriage. Most ministers enjoy the opportunity to discuss candidly with young men and women the various aspects of married life before the formal ceremony is scheduled.

Often I feel that the young people who come to me are too young to accept the responsibilities of marriage. Sometimes I am hesitant to encourage them to marry immediately. If I were asked, and usually I am not, I should caution them to delay the exchanging of vows until time has added to their understanding of what marriage involves and has increased their appreciation of each other.

But through the years I have become increasingly amazed by the ways through which these youngsters meet the problems which attend the building of new homes and adjusting to each other. I can say quite frankly that many of those youngsters who seemed least prepared for marriage are the very ones whose marriages have become most stable.

Invariably young people ask the same or similar questions. Over and over again I am asked how they can be sure that their marriage will succeed. Almost always I say that there is no guarantee for married happiness but that there are several bases upon which experience proves that a new home is likely to be strong.

First, I tell them that when they say their vows at the altar of the church they should resolve never to leave God's shrine out of their hearts and homes.

Second, I suggest that married love must be a growing and creative thing. I tell them that as much as they love each other now, they ought to expect their love to grow in depth and meaning through the years.

Third, I tell them that, for better or worse, they are marrying not only one another but also one another's families. Often I am disturbed by the ways in which young people and their parents become obstacles to happy marriages. I suggest ways by which each member to a marriage may enlarge his life by loving the family of his spouse.

Fourth, I assure young people that with wisdom, patience, compassion and love they may build solid foundations for their homes. I tell them that I am not so greatly amazed by marriages which fail as I am by the greater proportion of marriages which seem ready to have been made in heaven.

Ike Wins Respect In Summit Ordeal

PARIS—At the blood stained hands of Khrushchev, who loyally helped Stalin murder his way to iron control of the Soviet dictatorship, Eisenhower this week suffered his most undignified, painful, personally humiliating experience as President of the United States. Though outwardly tranquil and composed, Eisenhower was seething within as he sat, helpless to retort in kind lest he make a bad situation worse, while Khrushchev poured moral obloquy and insult upon him.

The President knew in general what was coming but he had no advance warning of the fury of it nor the volume of invective and mock innocence to which he was subjected in a statement which the Soviets were later to read to some 3,000 summit journalists from every country in the world.

Nine times Khrushchev, whose network of spies and subversives have been caught red-handed violating the sovereignty of most free nations, described Eisenhower and his action in approving the U2 intelligence mission as "provocative" and four times as "aggressive" or as the act of an "aggressor."

Other adjectives and epithets which he flung at the President were: "ridiculous," "crude," "unprecedented," "deception," "treachery," "disgraceful," "adventurous," and "a guest who would not be welcome" to repay Khrushchev's own visit to the United States.

Unquestionably these were the most lacerating and frustrating moments of a whole lifetime of personally and morally untarnished military and political service. There was little which Eisenhower could say to shield himself or to deflect the Khrushchev tirade. Eisenhower had himself given the basis of the argument to the Soviet premier by candidly stating in advance that the U2 was on a mission of reconnaissance over Soviet territory and by taking responsibility for it. Within the confines of the case which Khrushchev was making he had international law and all its niceties on his side.

Khrushchev's argument was a total moral condemnation of the United States "for violating Soviet sovereignty by spying" and it rested on total moral hypocrisy, the hypocrisy that Khrushchev and the Soviet Union have never engaged in spying or other intelligence activities.

Someone who knew of Eisenhower's low "boiling point," his tendency to occasional quick anger, thought that he would inevitably explode when subjected to such provocation. But the President is equally capable of exercising stern control over himself when discharging his gravest responsibilities.

The way the President conducted himself under vicious, verbal fire won him the admiration of De Gaulle and Macmillan. The French, German and British press—some of which relish seeing the Americans taken down a peg—were almost unanimously approving.

5 N.Y. Disc Jockeys Arrested On Payola-Bribery Charge

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Alan Freed, onetime piper of rock 'n' roll, was arrested with four other disc jockeys Thursday. They were accused of lining their pockets with payola to plug certain records on their broadcasts.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said their take—and that of two radio station employees also named in the case—ran as high as $36,000 during the two-year period 1958-59. He put Freed's at $30,650.

Hogan claimed the old system of song-plugging based on friendly contacts has given way in broadcasting to cash-on-the-line bribery for the pushing of favored records.

Freed was one of the first disc jockeys to adopt rock 'n' roll. He built up a tremendous following of teen-agers who stormed theaters whenever he put on a stage show outside his studios. He has denied repeatedly that he ever took payola, although the charge has cost him a number of high-salaried jobs.

Hogan's staff came across the payola scandals during an earlier probe of television quiz show-rigging. At about the same time a congressional investigation into the matter got under way last November, Hogan put a grand jury to work here on payola. Thursday's action was the first prosecution of payola in the nation.

However, it was not grand jury indictments that led to the arrest of Freed and the others. Instead, Hogan filed informations, charges of his own, accusing them of commercial bribery, punishable upon conviction by a year in city prison and a $500 fine.

The district attorney declared: "Twenty-three record companies are named in these informations as having made these payments to promote the success of their business. It has evidently been the judgment of some manufacturers and producers that the economic life of their companies depends on the amount of air time given to their records, and sales are based on popularity—however synthetic—which is created by the disc jockeys repeatedly exposing their records."

Hogan said Freed plugged payola records by playing them eight or nine times a night on his radio show and pushing them again on TV.

Besides Freed, those arrested were:

Disc jockey Peter Tripp, 33, of New York's WMGM, accused on 39 counts of taking $36,050 from eight record companies in the two-year 1958-59 period. He once stayed awake 200 hours in a Times Square broadcasting booth as a stunt.

Disc jockey Tommy Smalls, 34, of New York's WWRL, 48 counts, $13,385 from 18 companies. He was immediately discharged by the station.

Disc jockey Hal Jackson, 45, of New York's WLIB, 39 counts, $9,850 from nine companies.

Disc jockey Jack Walker, 39, formerly of WOV and now of WLIB, 33 counts, $7,420 from 10 companies.

Mel Leeds, now of Los Angeles station KDAY, 40 counts, accused of taking $9,675 from five companies when he was program director of New York's WINS, where Freed first won fame.

Joseph Saccone, 25, former record librarian of WMGM, seven counts, $36,000 from one company. An eighth man also was cited in the informations but he has not been arrested yet.

Freed and Leeds flew in from California to plead innocent before Special Sessions Justice Joseph A. Martinis. They were freed without bond for trial Sept. 29. Both are now with KDAY in Los Angeles.

The arraignment of the others was postponed to June 14.

Show Powers' Face to World At Trial, Red Editors Ask

MOSCOW (UPI)—The magazine Soviet Russia urged Thursday that American pilot Francis G. Powers be brought to trial "to reveal the aggressor's face for the whole world to see."

"Persons engaged in spying must be put on trial," the magazine said.

"The United States has grossly violated the 1919 Paris convention, signed by it, which forbids any flights over the territory of another nation without special permission from that nation's government," it stated.

Powers is the 30-year-old pilot the Russians said they shot down during the reconnaissance flight of a U2 jet over the Soviet Union May 1.

975 Million School Aid Squeaks By

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 975-million-dollar school bill was cleared Thursday for action in the House—and plenty of action seems assured.

A long, argument-filled session of the Rules Committee ended with the bill squeaking through by a 7-5 vote. It gave a taste of what may happen when it comes to the floor next Wednesday.

Except for aiding school districts having a large number of federal employees, the House in the past has consistently refused to grant money for local schools.

BACKERS CONFIDENT

Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC) keyed the opposition when he declared at the hearing: "The federal government ought to keep its nose out of education and I'm not going to be the one to push it in."

Backers of the bill are confident they can get it through, however. Teachers organizations, labor unions and other interested groups have been working hard on its behalf.

The measure would provide 325 million dollars a year for each of three years, solely for school construction. After the first year states would have to match federal funds.

It's a watered-down version of the bill that passed the Senate earlier in the session. The Senate version would authorize $1,800,000 in grants over a two-year period, and give the states the right to use the money for teacher salaries as well as construction.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. (D-NJ), author of the House bill, said it would provide 45,000 classrooms, well below the estimated shortage of 130,000.

THE SUBSTITUTE

The administration has proposed that the federal government underwrite state school bonds for five years and pay half the interest and carrying charges instead of making grants. That proposal is expected to be offered as a substitute when the Thompson bill comes to the floor.

One Republican, Rep. B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, voted with six Democrats to turn the Thompson bill loose.

40 Rescuers Racing Death for 4 on Peak

May Be Too Late, Doctor
Radios from Mt. McKinley

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Four of nine persons stranded on cold, cloud-wrapped Mt. McKinley are in "very poor condition and need help immediately," a physician reported by radio Thursday.

A fifth, Helga Bading, is seriously ill from altitude sickness. Advised that a ground party of about 40 mountaineers had started a climb to the rescue, Paul Crews of Anchorage radioed: "It might be too late."

He was with Mrs. Bading at the 15,000-foot level of the nearly four-mile-high peak. The others were with the injured men at the 17,500-foot level.

WEATHER HAMPER

Worsening weather hampered the air search. Helicopters tried to pierce the cloud blanket but the stranded climbers said they had not sighted the rescue craft. One could not climb higher than 17,200 feet and returned to its base at the 10,000-foot level to lighten its load for another attempt.

Rising winds whipped the mountainside after a night of 10-degree temperature.

The four injured climbers, all men, fell Tuesday night after climbing to McKinley's 20,320-foot summit. Five Anchorage climbers, including Dr. Rodman Wilson and Mrs. Bading, saw the fall and went to the aid of the party. Mrs. Bading became violently ill and crews took her to the lower level.

LIMBS FROZEN

Hurt are John Day, 51, of Central Point, Ore., and Pete Schoening and James and Louis Whitaker, 31-year-old twins, all of Seattle. Day has a fractured leg and frozen hands and feet; Schoening frozen feet and a kidney injury. One twin has a head injury, the other frozen hands and feet.

It was Dr. Wilson who made the latest report on the men's condition. He was asked if the group could make its way to the helicopter if one could find a landing area about 200 feet below.

"If that's the best that can be done," the doctor said, "we'll make it somehow."

If aerial rescue proves impossible it may take ground parties three days to bring the four men and a woman out.

Ike's Veto Of Job Aid Faces Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson announced Thursday the Senate will attempt next week to override President Eisenhower's veto of a 251-million-dollar bill to aid areas stricken by long-term unemployment.

The decision which defied difficult if not impossible odds was announced as liberal House Democrats indicated they would oppose a 180-million-dollar administration compromise which goes far beyond President Eisenhower's original 53-million-dollar proposal.

Johnson notified the Senate of plans for a vote next Tuesday or Wednesday "on the question of overriding the President's veto." Senate backers of the bill were understood to favor this course, to make a clear record of having tried to upset the veto, even if they fail.

The votes by which the bill passed the House and Senate fell far short of the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

Liberal Democrats who steered their bill to passage in the House had hoped Senate Democratic leaders would hold public hearings on the vetoed bill before voting on Eisenhower's rejection of it.

The administration's enlarged measure underscored the election year importance of the issue in West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and other states with persistent pockets of unemployment.

Eisenhower vetoed the bill on grounds it would "squander" taxpayers' money.

The administration compromise would provide aid for about 80 communities compared to 143 eligible in the rejected bill.

Jetliner, Light Craft Collide, Killing 2

PARIS (AP)—A twin-jet Caravelle airliner with 37 aboard and a small light plane collided near Paris Thursday. The light plane was demolished and its pilot killed. The Caravelle landed with one passenger killed and 25 others injured.

The collision occurred as the Caravelle, Air-Algeria's morning flight from Algiers, was making its approach for landing at Orly Field. It was flying at 2,000 feet.

The stewardess had just asked the passengers to fasten their seat belts. Then there was a crash. Debris flew through the cabin. The passengers stared in shocked disbelief at the gaping seven-foot-long hole in the roof and at the airplane engine which rested in the cabin aisle.

TRIED TO SPARK DISCUSSION, HE SAYS

Teacher Fired for Calling Khrushchev the Greatest

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A young teacher lost his job Wednesday night. He was quoted as telling his high school class Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is the greatest man in the world and spy plane pilot Francis Powers should be executed.

The teacher, Winston McDaniel, defended the statements as a means of sparking discussion and said they were quoted out of context.

He was suspended for the balance of the school year after the school board listened to a tape recording of the classroom session. Newsmen were not permitted to hear the recording.

San Antonio News columnist Paul Thompson reported the tape contained statements by McDaniel that the United States is lucky "the greatest man alive today" is in charge of the Soviet Union and that American military leaders desire war more than the Russians.

"Some of my remarks were my opinions and some were not," the 32-year-old teacher said. "I believe in making statements that are not my point of view but will get student response, and I got excellent response—too much, in fact."

He said he described Khrushchev as "the greatest man in the world in terms of political leaders," basing the appraisal on "a recent poll, taken, I believe, among diplomats."

"He's certainly the leading politician, anyway," the teacher said. McDaniel said he told students the United States is lucky Khrushchev controls the Soviet Union rather than the late Josef Stalin because he considers Khrushchev "a more reasonable man to deal with."

The remark about Powers came, he said, after a student asked what the Russians will do with the American civilian captured after his U2 spy plane was downed in the Soviet Union.

"I said that, in the Russian view, he would have to be put to death," McDaniel said.

His own opinion, he said, is that the United States should swap a captured Soviet spy for Powers.

Space Man Orbiting in Red Ship?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said Thursday he had been reliably informed that the Soviet "space ship" launched on the eve of the summit conference and now circling the earth may carry a human astronaut.

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and one of its best-informed members on missiles and space, told the Senate there is "growing reason to suspect that a man may be sitting in the Soviet space-ship" despite Russian disclaimers.

"The Soviets may very shortly attempt to return this man—alive—to earth," he told his Senate colleagues.

Jackson told a reporter later that his statement was based on "reliable information."

Meanwhile Thursday, U.S. and British scientists, who have been tracking the ship since it was launched last Sunday reported its time for circling the earth had suddenly changed from a little more than 91 minutes to about 94 minutes.

The ship apparently has been kicked into a 100-mile higher orbit at nearly 300 miles above the earth.

HIGH HOPES — LA MESA, Calif. — High school seniors Peter Burt, 18, on the ground, and Rowland Stanley, 17, show a three-stage, solid-fuel rocket they hope will climb 100,000 feet. It took them two years to plan and build it. The firing is set for Memorial Day weekend at a desert location.

Red Catechism Out: Atheist's Companion

The broadcast said the handbook "gives an expose of the myths about Buddha, Moses and Jesus Christ, and the harm they cause working people."

Japan Okays U.S. Pact as Mob Protests

TOKYO (UPI) — The lower house of the Japanese Diet Thursday unanimously ratified the controversial new U.S.-Japan security treaty while a solid cordon of police held off a mob of 20,000 anti-American demonstrators outside the parliament building.

The frustrated Communist-led opponents of the treaty promptly threatened to vent their anger on President Eisenhower when he comes here next month.

Ratification came in spite of violent demonstrations by anti-American elements at home and threats of dire consequences by Russia and Communist China. It was a swift reply by Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's supporters to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's vitriolic anti-American outbursts at the Paris summit meeting.

The treaty now goes to the upper House where ratification is expected to be a mere formality. Opposition socialist deputies and supporters resorted to strong-arm measures inside parliament in an attempt to prevent the House from convening. Outside, a force of 5,000 riot police standing four-deep behind a barricade of trucks parked bumper-to-bumper kept back the mob which threatened for a time to storm the main gate of the Diet compound.

Welfare Task Unit Looks Over Slums

Committee of 11 Appointed By Community Council

An intensive survey of welfare needs and problems in Atlanta's "hard-core" neighborhoods is being made by an 11-man task force of the newly created Community Council of the Atlanta Area, Inc.

Appointment of the "Committee of 11" means the CCAA is off and running. G. Arthur Howell Jr., council president, told the board of directors of the Atlanta Community Chest Thursday. The Chest set up the community-wide welfare planning council less than three weeks ago to coordinate and guide the efforts of the many dependent welfare bodies here. The study of problems in "hard core" areas is the first step in that direction, Howell said.

In other action, the Chest directors accepted the Cerebral Palsy Center of Atlanta, Inc., as the Chest's 56th member agency and said the palsy center would raise its 1961 operating funds through the United Appeal.

On the matter of funds, Harry S. Baxter, budget vice president, reported that a 105-member study committee has found that the Community Chest next year will need $2,549,712 from United Appeal for services and expansions.

That would be $315,917 more than the Chest received this year from United Appeal, a joint fundraising campaign of the Chest and Red Cross.

CUT IN HALF
Joseph K. Heyman, Chest president, called attention to the fact that member agencies' budget requests had run "17.2 per cent above 1960 allocations" but had been "cut in half by the budget committee."

In welcoming the Cerebral Palsy Center into the Chest fold, Heyman declared that "people want relief from multiplicity of drives."

"The Chest door is always open to health and welfare organizations that meet our budgeting and service standards," he said, "and it is a pleasure to take another step forward in reducing the number of major local appeals."

FINANCING CENTER
The 11-year-old palsy center has since its inception been financed primarily by solicitation of business concerns, house-to-house appeals and the annual "Old Newsboys Day" sponsored by the Atlanta Variety Club and Atlanta Newspapers, Inc.

Henry Grady Square To Be Dedicated

Formal dedication of Henry Grady Square, situated at the Henry Grady monument at Forsyth and Marietta streets, NW, will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday to mark the 110th birthday anniversary of the famed editor of The Atlanta Constitution.

Signs designating the site as Henry Grady Square were placed there in December 1929. But they conflicted with new street signs and the old Square signs were discarded. New signs have been made and will be installed.

2 Accuse Realtor of Race Scare

Two Atlanta women complained formally Thursday that an Atlanta real estate agent tried to pressure them into selling their houses by telling them the mayor had zoned the area for Negroes.

The accusations were contained in complaints filed with the Georgia Real Estate Commission against W. T. Cooley, agent for Atlanta Realty Co.

Complaints were signed by Mrs. J. T. Whitley of 55 Montgomery St., SE, and Mrs. Oscar Stewart, 67 Montgomery St., SE.

The Real Estate Commission, which has the power to suspend or revoke licenses, will conduct a hearing in the case in June.

The complaints were sent to the commission at the behest of Mayor Hartsfield, who noted that land cannot be zoned for use by any specific race.

"We have had numerous complaints that white real estate agents are going in and scaring people by telling them the mayor has ordered the land zoned for Negroes," he said.

"Any time any citizen, white or Negro, will give an affidavit to such practices, I will personally aid in prosecuting the case before the Georgia Real Estate Commission," he added.

Hartsfield said that most complaints come from the DeKalb County section of the city.

Bombed Temple Dedicating New, Remodeled Facilities

Ceremonies will be held this weekend dedicating new and remodeled facilities at The Temple, 1589 Peachtree St., NE, which was damaged by a bomb Oct. 12, 1958.

Rabbi Jacob Rothschild will conduct a service at 8 p.m. Friday and deliver the sermon. Speakers will include William B. Schwartz Jr., president of the congregation; Joseph Haas, president-elect and David Marx Jr.

A service for children will be held at 11:15 a.m. Saturday, to be followed by a luncheon in Friendship Hall in the new educational building named for David Marx, rabbi emeritus of The Temple.

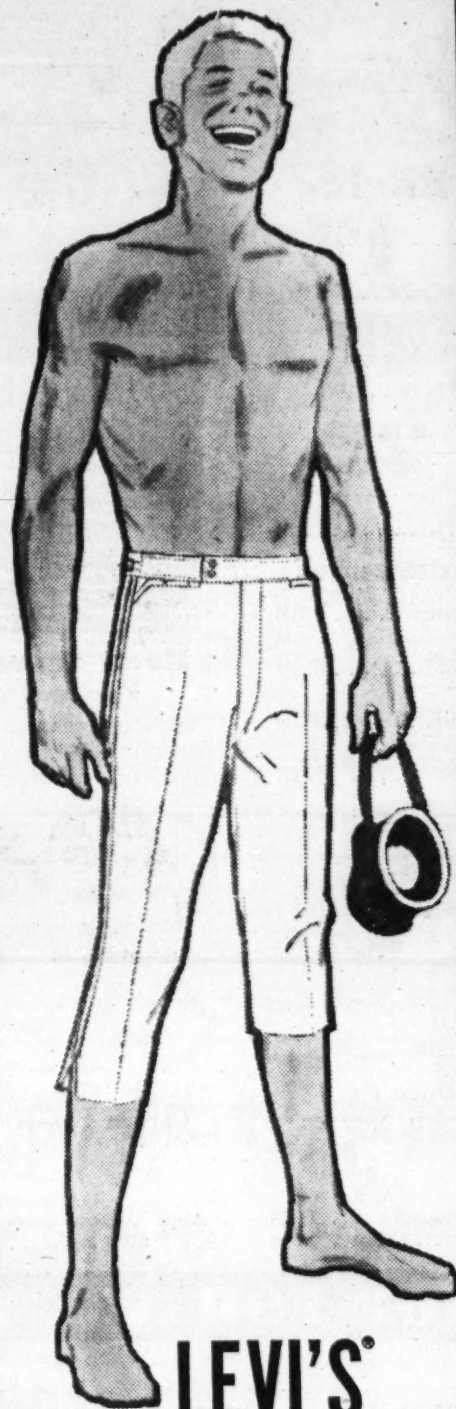

A reception will be held from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

RACE INCIDENT PHOTOGRAPHER

Ed Friend's Boss? Vandiver Won't Say

Gov. Vandiver declined Thursday to tell who gives orders to Ed Friend, state-paid photographer whose specialty is taking pictures at racial meetings and incidents.

But the governor said he has no objections to Friend's activities.

Vandiver's remarks were in response to a wire service reporter's question about the propriety of Friend's taking pictures of crowds which had gathered to watch the abortive Negro students' march on the Capitol Tuesday.

The reporter said Vandiver himself had indicated the presence of television cameramen only aggravated the situation by encouraging publicity-seekers.

"There might be an instance where we want to know who was there," Vandiver replied.

Asked who Friend worked for, the governor replied the "Forestry department."

"They say they never heard of him," the reporter replied.

ON PAYROLL

(Friend is on the forestry payroll at $5,100 a year, but Forestry headquarters are in Macon and Friend's office in the Capitol.)

"Any time I think he's not doing his job, he will be severed," Vandiver retorted.

Pressed to explain just what Friend's duties are and who assigns him, Vandiver said "I'm not going to discuss it any further."

ON HIS OWN TIME

Earlier this week the governor had said that Friend was on his own time last Saturday when he took pictures at a HOPE-sponsored "Open Schools Conference" at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

During the meeting Friend had a verbal clash with a Pinkerton detective captain who barred him from plugging a tape recorder into the hotel's public address system control board.

Friend also accompanied the Sibley Committee around the state, taking pictures at hearings.

$420 EXPENSES

Records show he drew $420 in expenses from the committee's funds, in addition to his regular salary during the period.

Vandiver said at the time that he had "no objections" to Friend's trips.

Last year the governor had warned Friend "not to engage in other activities" while working for the state.

A photograph Friend took at the integrated Highland Folk School in Monteagle, Tenn., was used in a campaign sheet attacking Vandiver in 1958. The sheet was issued by Vandiver's opponent, ex-Rep. William T. Bodenhamer.

Mikoyan Disappears, Is Believed Out of Job

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY
(Copyright 1960, The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Indications mounted Thursday that Anastas I. Mikoyan may have lost out in a violent Kremlin clash over policy toward the United States that preceded the Paris conference.

The witty and wily Armenian who has survived nearly 40 years of Kremlin in-fighting has not been seen publicly since the U2 plane crisis reached its climax.

Some diplomats from Communist countries suggested privately that if Mikoyan has fallen out of the inner ring this is a sign of a basic weakening of Premier Khrushchev's own position.

In the opinion of these observers there has been a sharp change in Soviet policy—a change of the magnitude that inevitably produces leadership changes.

Mikoyan's eclipse, some specialists said, may prove to be only temporary.

But another source with access to excellent information said, "The chances are seven to one that he is out."

Even if Mikoyan manages to cling to a position in the outer fringe of the Soviet power structure the implications of his downfall would be consequential.

Mikoyan has been most closely identified with the Soviet policy of rapprochement with the West and with friendship with the United States. He has also been a virtual stand-in or alter ego for Khrushchev himself.

Khrushchev has repeatedly demonstrated his complete confidence in Mikoyan. Mikoyan stood by Khrushchev during all of the Soviet premier's past crises and was regarded as having played a major role in Khrushchev's rise to the pinnacle of Soviet power.

If Mikoyan has now been defeated or downgraded in a basic controversy over the direction of the Paris conference.

Even before this there had been small clues suggesting a downgrading of Mikoyan.

He did not accompany Khrushchev to a big celebration at Baku late in April although Mikoyan was closely associated with Baku and Azerbaijan. His name was not listed in the party propaganda publication Party Life as a leader of the early Communist Party in Baku—although previously he had always been so designated. On May Day Mikoyan stood on the reviewing stand in Red Square but he was "below the salt"—standing to one side instead of in his customary position close to Khrushchev.

Specialists in Soviet affairs cautioned against drawing firm conclusions until more evidence is available. However, they noted that Mikoyan has not been seen publicly since a meeting of the Supreme Soviet in Moscow May 7. He was not reported as participating in any of the events that occurred in Moscow just before

Israel Scientists Find 500,000-Year Body

JERUSALEM (AP)—The remains of a prehistoric man more than 500,000 years old have been found near Afikim on the west bank of the Jordan River, a Hebrew University spokesman announced Thursday.

He said the discovery was made by chance when a bulldozer leveled a piece of land belonging to the Afikim settlement. Residents of the settlement called in Hebrew University scientists, who made a detailed investigation.

The spokesman termed the discovery the oldest prehistoric site so far found in the Middle East. He said it was only the third of its kind ever found in the world.

Along with the human remains, he said, were stone artifacts and the fossilized remains of animals of different species, most of them now extinct in the Near East.

The statement said that from a few human remains found at the site—two fragments of a human skull and one incisor tooth—no conclusions could yet be drawn as to the physical appearance of the human that lived there.

It added, however, that other finds made at the site proved "that he was very primitive and did not know yet how to make fire artificially."

Baptists Consider Kennedy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A resolution opposing the election of a Catholic as president of the United States was introduced from the floor Thursday at the Southern Baptist Convention.

The Rev. Wendell G. Davis, pastor of the Midwood Baptist church of Charlotte, N. C., offered the resolution. It was referred to the committee on resolutions, which is scheduled to report at Friday morning's session.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) was not mentioned but the resolution apparently was aimed at his candidacy.

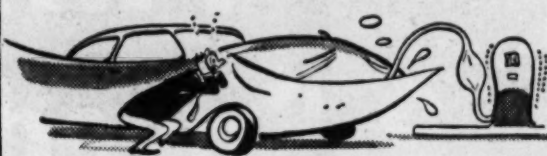

The resolution said: "We believe every man chosen for public office in our nation should be considered for office in the light of what the basic implications of his faith will have on important matters of public life and liberty, and how these basic implications of his faith measure when laid down beside our American heritage of complete religious liberty, the place of the public school in public education, the freedom of every man's conscience in matters of religion, and the equality of every church denomination before the law of the land."

General Cites Army Trial Curb

Army lawyers are best known for their work in courts-martial; but Army attorneys also are charged with working at "preventive discipline" which can often resolve a case outside a military court.

That was part of the message which Maj. Gen. George W. Hickman, Judge Advocate General of the Army, delivered Thursday to the Atlanta Chapter of the Federal Bar Assn. at Ft. McPherson Officers Club. As the head of the military justice system, Hickman serves as legal advisor to the secretary of the Army and all of the Army's agencies.

There are more than 1,000 lawyers in uniform, he said.

Hickman, a 1926 graduate of West Point and 1948 graduate of Harvard law school, said that in addition to courts-martial the JAG's primary duties include (1) dispensing legal advice to military personnel short of actual litigation; (2) passing on Army contracts with civilian agencies for supplies, labor and the like, and (3) handling damage claims filed against the Army.

He also told of the International Affairs Division, a separate JAG branch created four years ago to promote day-to-day contacts with attorneys of other nations.

Man Will Be Measured For His Spot in Heaven

QUESTION: Do you believe there will be various levels in heaven as there are in our earthly society? Will there be any differences made according to how long a person was a Christian, or how powerful a Christian is?—M. Y. F.

ANSWER: Yes, it does appear there will be some differences in heaven, but those differences will not be along social lines as they are in this life. Here society is usually divided according to the haves and the have nots, the learned and the unlearned, and so on ad infinitum.

On the other hand, according to Luke, Chapter 16, in many instances they may be completely reversed. In II Peter 1:11 we are told some are going to gain "an abundant entrance into the kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." It will be based on spiritual qualities as described in that portion of the Bible. It will also be based upon our effectiveness in serving during our brief lifetime. In I Corinthians 3:14, 15 the Apostle Paul tells of some who are going to receive a reward and others

ACL and Seaboard Seal Merger Plans

Yard in Atlanta is operated jointly with the L&N.

The Seaboard has 947 miles of track in Georgia, and approximately 2,100 employees. Major facilities include Howell Yard in Atlanta, and other freight yards in Macon, Columbus and Savannah.

Seaboard's main north Georgia line runs from Birmingham through Cedartown, Atlanta, Athens, Elberton and on into the Carolinas to Washington. Another line runs from Savannah to Montgomery, serving Macon, Americus and other cities in that area. Seaboard also has lines from Savannah to Jacksonville, and from Columbus to Tallahassee and West Palm Beach, Fla.

One ACL line runs south from Augusta to Savannah and Brunswick, and west through Jesup, Waycross, Valdosta, Thomasville, Bainbridge, Camilla, Albany, Moultrie, Tifton and Quitman. Another runs north from Waycross to Douglas, Fitzgerald, Cordele, Montezuma, Manchester, LaGrange and Atlanta. ACL also owns dock and terminal facilities at Savannah.

Engineering studies said the merger would effect a saving of $38,700,000 before taxes realizable within five years after the merger. It was estimated that 50 percent of the total savings might be accomplished by the end of the second year.

The stockholders' meetings will be "later this year."

At the end of 1959 there were 4,831,799 shares of Seaboard common stock outstanding and 2,267,256 shares of ACL. The merged company is expected to have approximately 8,738,000 shares outstanding.

Governor Says Patrol Averted Riot

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins for diverting the planned march of the 2,300 students, administration leaders have been praising the governor, the patrol and patrol director, Col. William Trotter, for heading off trouble by a "display of force."

Chief Jenkins met the marching students some four blocks from the Capitol, where the troopers stood guard, and directed the column to march through downtown, rather than passing by the Capitol.

Asked who he thought had prevented the march on the Capitol, Vandiver pointed out that, in a statement issued on the eve of the announced march, he made it clear that no demonstrators would be allowed on Capitol grounds.

"We had the necessary forces here, and I think that was the deterrent factor," he said. He added that the situation at the Capitol was "explosive" and violence could have erupted.

The governor did not in any way refer to the chief of police in his remarks.

Vandiver again lashed out against demonstrators and demonstrators. In a prepared statement distributed at his news conference, he said demonstrators only make matters worse.

"It is difficult to understand how any person or organization can shout loudly about 'the law of the land' and at the same time counsel and advise young college students to defy law and order and to engage in acts which would disrupt the public peace and engender violence and racial hatred," he said, apparently referring to the NAACP.

"I urge again that innocent persons not permit themselves to be misled into participating in such useless undertakings. To do so, will give aid and comfort to the enemies of this country at a critical time."

dynamite were placed under the bedroom of the Green home.

The sheriff said racial hatred may have been a motive, but that investigators have turned up no evidence of such a motive.

Green himself said he was at a loss to explain the dynamiting.

"I was born and reared in Ringgold," Green told The Constitution. "I've lived in the same house for about five years. I've never had any trouble. I thought everybody liked me."

Green said he had never received any kind of warning or threat.

"All I know is that I went to bed last night and then I woke up out in the back yard," he said.

Green was knocked unconscious by the blast. He was dragged from the wreckage by his 13-year-old son.

Green lives at the edge of a small Negro residential area in Ringgold. He has white neighbors on one side of his home and Negro neighbors on the other.

Green said he counted his white neighbors among his friends.

Gordon Mathis, a white neighbor, described Green as "one of the nicest colored men I've ever known—a real Christian who lives right and tries to bring his children up right."

Mathis said he was among the first persons to arrive at the blast scene. The explosion shattered a window on one side of his house.

Green's employer, J. Howard Abney of East Ridge, Tenn., described the mechanic as a peaceable man who "just doesn't make people mad."

Meanwhile, the state crime laboratory was sifting through the debris of the home in hopes of finding some clue to the dynamiters' identity. Officers said it may be several days before they receive a report from the crime lab.

Sheriff Stewart said racial relations in Catoosa County have been good, although there have been a few recent Ku Klux Klan demonstrations. He said the county has a comparatively small Negro population.

"We've never had trouble with Negroes here," the sheriff said. "Oh, one may get a traffic case once in a while, but that's about all."

"I KNOW I UPSET PEOPLE!"

"I DON'T GO AROUND IN A 'SLOPPY JOE SWEATER and blue dungarees, but most people in the paint industry tend to think I'm as off-beat as a genuine 'beatnik,' anyway! They pretend to be distressed because I refuse to go along with the industry's tired old methods of advertising and selling paint.

"WHAT'S REALLY BUGGING THEM, as a true 'beat' would say, is the fact that my company is growing at a faster rate than any other paint company in the United States, bar none! That means, of course, that you are taking your business away from them and giving it to me. It means my advertising and merchandising methods are working, while theirs are falling apart at the seams!

"MOST IMPORTANTLY, it indicates that you, the paint-buying public, are impressed by the Mary Carter story and by what it means to you in terms of high quality paint at realistic prices, with no part of your bank dollar going for outdated, archaic and antiquated operational practices.

"NO WONDER THEY'RE UPSET! And, no matter what they say, the one thing about Mary Carter Paint Factories that upsets my competitors most (because it's too costly for them to copy with their old-fashioned methods) is the big paint dividend that makes so many lifelong customers and friends for me: at Mary Carter paint stores, you get good paint and you get

WHY NOT JUST CHARGE HALF PRICE?

"My points are quality priced because they are quality paints! I'll never classify Mary Carter paints with any of the cheap imitations being offered, nor will I ever downgrade my products by resorting to price reductions, discounts or special sales. Khrushchev Calms Down ogy from the United States for the spy flight over the Soviet Union.

This demand sent the summit meeting onto the rocks. He did not even mention the "obstacles" which he said, before leaving Paris, must be removed before another top-level meeting could be held.

Nor did he make any new threats against West Berlin, whose border is only about three miles from where he spoke. He mentioned it only once, as a problem that has to be settled within the framework of a treaty with Germany.

NEW SITUATION

He did say there was a new situation now. The Soviet government, he went on, would discuss it with the other Communist countries and draw the necessary conclusions.

This may have been an allusion to Red China, which some Westerners believe may have played a major role in collapsing the summit conference.

Like the Chinese Communists, the East German Reds take a hard Stalinist line and may also take a dim view of relaxing tensions.

SPEAKS TODAY

In welcoming Khrushchev, for example, Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht did no soft-pedaling on West Berlin. He called West Berlin a springboard for German militarists.

Khrushchev had been scheduled to address a mass rally in central Berlin. That has been changed to indoor meeting Friday afternoon.

Whether the change is for political or security reasons is not public.

The Soviet leader got a warm greeting from hundreds of thousands as he drove 25 miles with Ulbricht and Premier Otto Grotewohl.

PROGRAM SECRET

Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, who kept extremely close to Khrushchev in Paris, was in the car behind.

Khrushchev is expected to stay in Berlin for only a couple of days. His program was kept secret. He conferred Thursday night with East German leaders and diplomats from Communist countries.

Willy Brandt, mayor of West Berlin, issued a statement saying he had heard the Soviets would not change the situation in his city as long as the Communists were not provoked.

AFFECTS NOT CLEAR

"I would like to state," Brandt said, "that we are always on the side of those who act honorably to preserve peace."

ENDANGERS BASES

How Berlin will be affected by the events in Paris is not yet clear. The East Germans have gone out of their way to put across the impression that Khrushchev will sign no separate peace treaty with them this trip. Khrushchev has warned that if he signs such a treaty, the Western garrisons in Berlin will lose their right of air, land and water access from outside.

But there are other actions that could bring clashes between the Communists and the West. There would be a new crisis if the Soviets tried to hand over to the East Germans authority over Western military convoys moving over Communist territory into West Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain. The West refuses to recognize the East German regime.

CHARGES CLUMSINESS

Without "our series of blunders," he added, Khrushchev would have had no pretext for making his "impossible" demand for an Eisenhower apology at the summit.

"We Democrats know how clumsy this administration can be," Stevenson told the partisan crowd. "We are not likely to forget the fumbles that preceded the Suez crisis on the eve of the 1956 election."

ASKS CHECK—WASHINGTON, D.C.

Sen. Dodd (D-Conn) Thursday called for prosecution of Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland industrialist, for dealings with Soviet Union.

Dodd, in Senate speech, said Eaton flew to Paris to talk with Khrushchev after the collapse of the Summit conference, violating the Logan Act which prohibits private citizens from negotiating with foreign powers to influence U.S. policy.

Before leaving Paris, Eisenhower made his first public comment on the collapse at the summit but without answering the insults hurled at him by Khrushchev.

"I share the disappointment of my colleagues that, because of my inability to convene the summit conference, we could make no progress for easing the tensions which so plague mankind," he said at Paris' Orly Field.

"But I fully share their confidence that because of this setback we of the Western Allies, and particularly France, Britain and the United States, both through their governments and through their people, are joined even closer about that condition. We answered abuse with dignity and logic. We answered accusations with facts."

The President referred to Portugal, a partner with the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, as a tremendous friend and ally.

In another allusion to the summit debacle, he said: "Whenever these situations occur, we have to work ever stronger to strengthen our own camp and bring it ever closer together."

Eisenhower spoke at a private reception for Americans working in Portugal. His remarks, based on notes taken by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, then were made public.

Before leaving Paris, Eisenhower made his first public comment on the collapse at the summit but without answering the insults hurled at him by Khrushchev.

"I share the disappointment of my colleagues that, because of my inability to convene the summit conference, we could make no progress for easing the tensions which so plague mankind," he said at Paris' Orly Field.

"But I fully share their confidence that because of this setback we of the Western Allies, and particularly France, Britain and the United States, both through their governments and through their people, are joined even closer than before in a determined pursuit of peace with justice in the world."

Replying to Portuguese reporters' questions at a news conference, Hagerty said once again that Eisenhower is "completely disgusted and fed up with the tactics and antics of Khrushchev."

"I think he feels," said Hagerty, "that it is nice to get away from that sort of stuff and come to a place where you have allies and friends."

Hagerty hastened to add that he was talking about the President getting away from Khrushchev and not from French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, his Western colleagues at the ill-fated summit meeting.

Eisenhower, who leaves for home Friday to report to the nation on the summit, came to Lisbon four days earlier than he had planned because of the summit's quick end. He was met at the airport by President Americo Tomaz and strong man Premier Antonio Salazar.

Appearing a bit tired but smiling, the President told his hosts and a cheering airport crowd of about 5,000 that Portugal and the United States, long good friends, would continue to work together in the common cause of peace and justice for all men.

Two chiefs of state rode in Tomaz' open Rolls-Royce. In front and behind the car were smartly uniformed guards in white plumed helmets.

From hundreds of balconies, all along the route from the airport to Queluz Palace were hung fine tapestries and gay-colored draperies.

Confetti poured down from the balconies and office windows. Skyrockets exploded in the air. Military bands played. A field artillery unit fired a 21-gun salute.

In the heart of the downtown area, the crowds were eight to ten deep in some points.

The President stood during part of the ride and waved again and again. At other times he stood with arms outstretched above his head. Eisenhower wore a dark gray herringbone suit, white shirt and black tie.

The outpouring of Portuguese was encouraged by Salazar's strongly anti-Communist government.

The Home Office issued a statement urging the people to show Eisenhower "how much appreciated is his determination in safeguarding peace with dignity."

Government employees were given the morning off to turn out to welcome the American President, who last visited Portugal in 1951.

At that time he was supreme commander in Europe of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Before leaving for home, Eisenhower will discuss with Salazar the situation arising from the revival of the cold war.

Negro Ghettos in the North Negroes Want Total Acceptance

ferior environment. In educational attainment and income level these now belong to the middle class, and their drive is to secure the appropriate marks of that status.

Another element is the psychological impact of the sweeping redefinition of Negro rights by the U.S. Supreme Court. The outliving of the legal forms of second-class citizenship in the Southern states has little practical application in other regions of the country, where the barriers are largely extra-legal. But every Negro everywhere has emotionally identified himself with the Little Rock nine; the fortitude of these children has become an epic for a race whose prior heroes had consisted primarily of athletes and entertainers who gained fame through white indulgence.

EMERGENCE OF AFRICA

Finally, the dramatic emergence of free black nations in Africa has given the American Negro the sense of ethnic identification he had always denied himself. Certainly the African heritage, diluted by the passage of centuries and a heavy infusion of white blood, is remote—but now the Negro can look upon it with pride instead of shame.

A light-skinned Negro physician, who had long since attained his own comforts and never concerned himself particularly with racial affairs, discussed the phenomenon with something akin to wonder.

"When I was growing up I never thought about Africa if I could help it," he said. "To me it was a scene in a Tarzan movie, apes swinging through the trees, and cannibals, and all that. I guess I didn't want to be identified with it, and resented the fact that I was."

"Now when the news comes in from Africa these days it gives me an emotional wallop. I've never seen those Bantus, and I probably never will—and the Lord knows I've got more kinfolks among the whites in America than I have in the Union of South Africa. But somehow it seems like my fight now."

PRIDE AND AGGRESSION

Racial pride can produce undue aggression—as it sometimes does among Negroes these days and doubtless will continue to do in the future. But it can also produce the sense of identity and personal security that was denied Negroes when they were consigned without choice to a segregated society and subjected without effective recourse to any indignity a white man cared to accord them.

This is the element the curbstone psychologist finds most striking as he examines the shifting racial scene in the great, non-Southern cities. It accounts for a certain ambivalence in the attitude of the older generation of Negro leaders who sought through integration the dissolution of the Negro community, and the total assimilation of its members. Realistically they recognized that the stubborn fact of pigmentation would make the goal more difficult to achieve than it had been for other minorities who had attained it—but integration was the preachment they had inherited from a line of white reformers stretching back to the abolitionists.

The rising leadership does not reject the philosophical concept of integration. Even more militantly than their elders they demand the right of total social mobility—to live and work and attend school in circumstances that are in accord with their means and ability, and without reference to their race. Yet, when they propose to break with the white and the white-oriented leadership and use the weight of Negro political and economic solidarity to pursue these goals, they are in fact accepting, if not segregation, at least separation.

The parallel most often cited is that of the earlier immigrants who occupied many of the same ghettos into which Negroes and Puerto Ricans are now buddled—the Jews, the Italians, the Irish, the Poles, and the Germans. These too were initially consigned to closed neighborhoods and menial employment. But within the ghettos they husbanded their resources, improved the opportunities for their children, and in time began the outward and upward movement that has in fact led to their assimilation in the larger American community.

THE DOUBTERS

There are those—and not necessarily philosophical white supremacists—who doubt that the Negro temperament and prior conditioning will permit the development of similar patterns. They point to the fact that the primary elements that held the earlier communities together and gave them common purpose are missing in the case of the dark-skinned newcomers—a separate culture or religion or language.

In the case of the Negro the attitudes long since imposed upon him in his days in the South are those of the white community, warped though they may have been in the past by the practical impossibility of his attaining the standards he was taught to respect.

Oscar Handlin, the Harvard historian, who has summarized extensive social studies of Negroes and Puerto Ricans in the New York metropolitan area in his "The Newcomers," has examined these arguments and tends to discount them.

In any event, Handlin believes that the developing pattern of the future will produce cohesive Negro communities—not the great slum concentrations of the present, but communities scattered through the spreading suburbs and offering a variety of accommodations in which Negro families can find housing in accord with their income level.

VOLUNTARY IN-GROUPING

Handlin contends that this is not only a likely development but from every standpoint—including the Negro's—a highly desirable one. Everyone who has had practical experience in the field would agree that what Handlin politely calls "the genuine problems of social disorder" which now exist in the ghettos do not respond readily to external efforts at alleviation. They demand, in his view, communal institutions created and controlled by Negroes themselves.

If Handlin's thesis is correct, and also proves acceptable to the new Negro leadership, it would of course remove or greatly reduce the greatest source of friction between whites and Negroes. The contest with whites for jobs is only a minor factor now, and this will continue to be the case if the economy maintains its present rate of expansion. Casual contact between whites and Negroes in places of public accommodation produces few incidents these days.

The Negro runs into his greatest frustration and often encounters overt hostility, when he seeks a decent place to live in virtually the only place he can find it—a white neighborhood.

"I think this kind of development is possible," one of the young intellectuals has said of Handlin's prospectus. "But it can't be thrust upon Negroes by the whites. We've got to have the right to live where we please. Once we've got that, I suspect most of us will tend to group together voluntarily. After all, that is really the point of the argument—that we're not different from other people, it's just that other people treat us differently."

There is confirmation, too, in the fears voiced by Ray James, the Harlem political leader, and other practical men of affairs in the district. In the wake of the New York slum clearance program a few rather elegant and expensive apartment houses have been built and others projected. While open to Negroes, the economic factor keeps the number of Negro tenants to a minimum and the apartments tend to fill with well-to-do whites.

A WHITE HARLEM?

"If we don't watch out," Jones says, "the whites are likely to ease back in here and take Harlem away from us. After all, it's the most attractive piece of real estate in the whole area. We've got hills and views of both rivers, the transportation is good, and it's the only close-in area that doesn't have any industry. We'd have some token integration for the Negro fat cats, but all those who couldn't afford high rents would be shunted off into some new slum."

It is doubtful that the circle will ever close in such ironic fashion. What seems more likely is an increased demand from Negroes for publicly-assisted low- and middle-income housing within the existing ghettos, even while they press ahead with the effort to open up outlying areas for those who have the means to graduate altogether.

Sound public policy will recognize that the demand is not only just but wise. These may very well be the minimum terms for racial peace.

myko contended the United States had no intention of giving up aerial spying.

Gromyko declared the United States "was compelled to announce merely a temporary suspension of the provocative flights over Soviet territory after its acts had been resolutely condemned throughout the world."

"What is involved, therefore," Gromyko went on, "is not a renunciation of the United States policy, which is contrary to the fundamental principles of the United Nations charter, but merely a tactical step taken by the United States government with the object of deluding world public opinion."

The Soviet foreign minister will fly to New York Friday from the wrecked Paris summit conference.

British sources said they expect Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd to represent Britain in the U2 debate. The French said if Lloyd comes, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville may also be on hand.

The American strategy against the Soviet charges of spying and President Eisenhower's own open skies counterplan will be worked on over the weekend in Washington by Eisenhower, Herter and U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

and work in a skit with Jerry, probably one with the two teaching each other the tricks of their respective trades.

One other certainty is that Jerry and his wife, Patti, will appear in two commercials; they've already been filmed, 10-11 (Channel 2).

8:30-9 (Channel 11) — The Man From Blackhawk, a Western with wanderlust, pops up on the Bowery in New York Friday. But it's the same old Barbary Coast plot—the heavy rules the Bowery, the girl has a heart of gold, the police are either bored or bought or both, the hero triumphs with ease and a good right cross.

The crime is murder by fire, with a measly $1,500 insurance claim bringing the investigator and justice. Nita Talbot, currently Hollywood's champion heart-of-gold gal, does her specialty again here.

Scouting TV Tonight

Jerry Lewis Frolics; Fisher's a Guest

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET — Jerry Lewis rides again and, as usual, his frolicsome hour is subject to change without notice.

This Jerry Lewis Show, for example, may contain a film of Jerry's appearance with a frantic English group, The Nitts, which had been scheduled for his last outing, but was cut at the last minute. There's also a good chance Jerry will do a skit, called "The Good Old Summertime," which proves that the old summertime isn't always good — it features some summery hazards, like faulty air conditioning, problems while fishing and the back yard barbecue.

Eddie Fisher is a guest (that is definite), and he'll sing a few tunes from his latest album,

FROLICSOME

9-10 (Channel 5)—We'll get a peek at the Summit on Eyewitness to History, which is rounding up the events of the week in Paris in a one-hour special. Besides the scenes of the critical meeting, there will be special film on this one, shot through Western Europe, on the reactions to the talks. And, of course, commentary by the network's battery of experts.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Neptism among the Warner Brothers family of TV mysteries pops up again tonight, with 77 Sunset Strip helping out Hawaiian Eye.

Roger Smith, of the California concern, is called to a small Hawaiian island to investigate something or other. The case he's called in on is promptly forgotten, because another crime starts happening, with Smith at the victim-elect. This one is lacking in action, concentrating mostly on the soap-operaish romantic tangle of the people involved. Three of the Hawaiian Eysers are in this briefly.

You may recognize the voice of the man who plays the bit part of the heavy's boss; he's Tyler McVey, a radio veteran, who was Cliff Arquette's partner back in the World War II days on "Glamour Manor."

8:30-9 (Channel 2)—Masquerade Party's scheme for Friday is to have one of its guests come dressed as a dark villain, with the panel supposedly in danger of their lives. Another spot is more light-hearted; the masquerader will be disguised as an NBC page boy.

The usual panel is in attendance, with Audrey Meadows

Gabor and glamour are as synonymous as T-model and Ford.

Ever since the luscious Hungarian girls landed on this side of the pond we've been brain-washed with all sorts of propaganda about their charm, their me a sure incidentally, are about perfect, about their desire to be "luffed, dahling, luffed."

But all good things must end somewhere and so we have come to an end to this one-way street of glamour and glitter.

Eva, the youngest of the Gabor girls, has found that she cannot be content simply spending lots of money, wearing diamonds as big as ice cubes and lolling around in the finery of a mansion on Fifth avenue.

"This is all very nice," Eva said Thursday between comments on her new TV show for Robert Taylor's Detective show (Channel 1 at 10). "You have heard that the Gabor is money, and but it is not true. I want fulfillment in my life. Acting has never been a joke with me. I study it and study other actresses because I want to learn.

"Naturally I want to live comfortably and I want to participate in life. But it all becomes very empty if you concentrate on pleasure. There is work to be done.

"I do not think it is a sin to be beautiful," said Eva, "But now in order to prove myself, I am willing to take parts where I do not look beautiful. I will look ugly on stage if they will let me act in something important."

An ugly Gabor girl? That's out of the question!

IN PASSING it might be pointed out that Robert Taylor has taken no chances with his show Friday night.

He has surrounded Miss Gabor with all of the finery to which she is accustomed in her Fifth Avenue suit, which formerly was occupied by a millionaire. The paintings, art objects and other window dressing ran up the show's budget to a point that this probably will be the most expensive private eye drama of the season.

As a matter of fact, Taylor spent so much money on sets that he didn't have much money left for script and other things and Friday's play won't be up to Taylor's par.

But then you can't have a Gabor and drama, too. Not on TV.

WE'VE TOSSED some bricks at TV for its immature handling of some major news events, but CBS-TV and NBC-TV did a great job of covering the summit.

Television demonstrated that

UNGLAMOROUS?
Eva Gabor

it can, if put to the test, handle fast-breaking stories with restraint and with in-depth reporting.

State May Regulate Radioactive Matter

Georgia may be among states which will gain regulatory control over radioactive material—a control heretofore held only by the federal government.

Some 50 representatives of 13 Southern states met Thursday at the Biltmore Hotel. The meeting, sponsored by the Regional Advisory Council on Nuclear Energy, was held so members could study criteria proposed by the Atomic Energy Commission for the regulatory transfer.

Roy J. Boston of the State Health Department, said the Georgia group will recommend a course of action to the director of the State Health Department.

Negro Convicted in Trolley Slaying At Third Trial and Given Life Term

A 19-year-old Atlanta Negro, whose companion faces the electric chair for the same slaying, was given a life sentence Thursday in the killing of a trolley driver last year.

A Fulton Superior Court jury deliberated about six hours before returning a guilty verdict with a recommendation for mercy against Percy Wilson Jr., of a Boulevard, NE, address.

Wilson and an accomplice, Morris Lee Harp, 18, also of a Boulevard, NE, address, were found guilty in April, 1959, of the murder of trolley driver E. R. Lewis and were sentenced to the electric chair.

However, Wilson's conviction was reversed and he was granted a new trial. Harp was given a stay of execution pending the outcome of Wilson's new trial.

It was Wilson's third trial on the charge. In April, 1960, a mistrial was declared when the jury was unable to reach a verdict.

Wilson was charged with using a pistol he had stolen from his father to waylay, with Harp, Lewis at English avenue and Fox street, NW. The pair were accused of shooting Lewis when he resisted.

Lewis returned their fire before he died, wounding Wilson in the arm, police said. Wilson had a wound in his arm when he was arrested two weeks after the murder.

Wilson's lawyers contended Wilson shot Lewis in self-defense when Lewis pulled a pistol in a scuffle over the bus fare.

Mysterious Hole Puzzles Arlington

Constitution State News Service
ARLINGTON, Ga.—Farmers in this area are scratching their heads in puzzlement about a mysterious hole in the ground.

The hole, 18 feet deep, suddenly appeared about two weeks ago in a field owned by Wyatt Brooks while Brooks and a helper were plowing. The hole is nine feet in diameter.

Brooks said he was plowing along when the earth near him suddenly gave way, leaving a hole filled with six feet of "bubbling" water.

The hole is a half mile from the nearest stream. It is in an upland field.

A. L. Timmons, a neighbor of Brooks, said the hole was filled with water, as soon as it developed. The water bubbled at first but now it is calm.

Timmons said he, Brooks and a number of other farmers have inspected the hole but none has any idea what it is.

"I heard of something like this several years ago near here," Timmons said. "A big hole suddenly developed in the ground, and a calf fell in it. Well, it turned out that the hole was part of a big cave."

"I don't know what it is," said Timmons. "It's not much to talk about. It's just a big hole."

Rail Police Elect Wright Of Baltimore

Karl F. Wright of Baltimore, Md., became chairman of the Protective Section, Association of American Railroads, as the organization concluded its 40th annual meeting here Thursday at the Biltmore Hotel.

Wright is general superintendent of police of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He succeeds W. A. Johnson of Macon, chief special agent of the Central of Georgia Railway.

A. E. Kerr of St. Louis, manager of special services, St. Louis—San Francisco (Frisco) Railway, was installed as vice chairman.

The railroad policemen voted to hold their next annual meeting sometime in May, 1961, in Baltimore.

Before the meeting adjourned, the group was addressed by J. N. Broetzman, of Richmond, Va., general manager of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, and Morris B. Abram, of Atlanta, division counsel, Georgia Railroad.

'Railwayitis' Draws 600 Women Here

By BETTY CARROLLTON

Piggy-backs... reefers... loaders... semaphores... frogs... gandydancers

Sound like beatnik babble? It isn't. Those are just some of the terms that will be served long with breakfast, lunch and dinner for more than 600 women from throughout the U.S. who are expected in Atlanta next week. The women not only have the familiarity of such strange jargon in common, but they're all victims of the same malady: "Railwayitis."

It's an occupational ailment which affects women as well as male railroad employees. According to members of the National Association of Railway Business Women, who will gather in Atlanta next week for their 16th annual convention, the malady is "localized in the mind and in the heart; runs a long course, and is hopelessly incurable." But also according to them, it's something to welcome, not fear.

"The medication of that first salary check is habit forming," declared Mrs. Vere E. Richards, Columbus, Ohio, who's been working closely with Atlanta members in "railroading" convention plans. "You become an addict to the treatment and want more of the same — in larger doses."

Atlantans, including Miss Elizabeth Greene, president of the national organization, agree that the malady becomes progressively worse. Such is the "germ" that draws the women together here.

The delegates will begin registering here on Saturday, May 21, when a group of 24, from various parts of the nation, arrive to launch a series of pre-convention activities. Sunday is the first red-letter day on the social calendar, with an afternoon tour of Atlanta, followed by dinner at Aunt Fanny's cabin. On Monday, May 23, the visitors will tour three local homes, an event sponsored by the Atlanta Art Institute. An all-day trip to Warm Springs, with lunch at Callaway Gardens, highlights the Tuesday schedule.

FORMAL OPENING

Wednesday, May 25, marks the formal opening of the convention, with A. J. Beatty, Washington, D.C., assistant vice president, Association of American Railroads, delivering the keynote address at 11 a.m. at convention headquarters, the Dinkler Plaza Hotel. Miss Frances Krimmel, Washington, D.C., manager of the newly created women's division of the Association of American Railroads, will speak on "New Horizons for NARBW."

The 600 delegates expected will be officially welcomed by Peter Zack Geer, executive secretary to Governor Vandiver, and Lee Evans, president of the Board of Aldermen, City of Atlanta. Mrs. Annie Lou Brigrman, president of the Atlanta Chapter, NARBW, will welcome delegates on behalf of local members.

Other Atlantans scheduled to speak during the convention include Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor, Assistant to the President, Georgia Power Company; Mrs. Bernice McCullar, State Department of Education; Dr. Noah Langdale Jr., president, Georgia State College; and Mrs. Hellice Clark, outgoing executive director, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. Miss Viola White will preside at the editors' breakfast Wednesday morning.

NEW OFFICERS

Miss Greene will be presiding throughout the convention, with the installation of new officers scheduled for Friday, day, May 27.

On Saturday, May 28, delegates will be entertained at a morning coffee at Rich's tea room, followed by the post-convention board meeting. Later in the afternoon, dozens of the visitors will depart for a post-convention tour of Savannah.

Each NARBW chapter sponsors various projects in the local community to which they devote numerous hours of service and financial aid. For several years, the Atlanta Chapter, organized in 1953, concentrated its efforts on aiding the Fairhaven School for Mentally Retarded Children. The women donated equipment worth more than $1,000 to the institution. Other projects benefit Jolly Home in Conyers, Grady Memorial Hospital, The Lady of Perpetual Care, and the local Multiple Sclerosis Chapter.

There are 115 members in the Atlanta chapter, from the various railroads and allied industries.

The NARBW is the second largest organization in the country comprised of women engaged within a single industry.

The Association's history dates back to World War I. Its membership today includes more than 6,000 women in 55 chapters located in leading railroad transportation centers in the nation.

She Lost Her 'King'

The way the housekeeping crews in our building broke the news to me reminded me of something Margaret Halsey wrote about the tenderness with which ship's crews handle a lady traveler abroad. Such solicitude, such loving care, she said is normally reserved for the feeble-minded or the pregnant.

And that's the way the chamber-shirted gentleman broke the news to me that I had to clean out my desk.

"We don't want to rush you," he said gently. "We just going to set the drawers out of your old desk over here on the floor and when you get around to it you can put your papers and things in your new desk. You just do it at your convenience—don't push yourself a bit."

He must have known he was striking cold terror to my heart. He must have known I was in no condition to face my past—eight or 10 years of past, jammed as long as one yellow clipping would budge, into the musty recesses of the battered old green desk.

But his idea about leaving it spread out on the floor wasn't much help because people kept stepping into the drawers, spraining ankles and bumping shins, and stuff kept dribbling out on the floor.

So I finally braced myself and started and the first thing I pulled out of the mess was an old letter with a faded snapshot attached. It was a letter written many, many years ago by a lady who is gone from Atlanta's streets now but who will be remembered by some of us as long as we live.

She was Mrs. Arizona Bell and she sold papers at the corner of Broad and Walton streets from the time she hit Atlanta in her late 70s until shortly before she died at the age of 98 years.

She had a lively life. She was a bareback rider in Buffalo Bill's circus, a stock actress who knew Mary Pickford when she was a stage star, the veteran of "walking feats" in the West at the turn of the century and she had been married five times. And she kept having adventures that left her dizzy with excitement and pleasure as long as she lived. Once The Constitution invited her to attend opening night at the Metropolitan Opera and a lot of people pitched in to help her get fixed up for the occasion. She loved it. ("I was in show business once myself," she explained to Rise Stevens.) She dived off the high board at Grant Park every Fourth of July until about two years before her death. And toward the end of her life she conquered a notion that "Nice women don't vote" and accepted with pleasure an honorary membership in the League of Women Voters.

But I didn't know until I cleaned out my desk that she had lost her only true love. There was this letter, given me years ago to be read and used, if I wanted to, after her death.

It was written to a girl named Margaret who was marrying the man, the only man, Miss Arizona ever loved. She married the others, she explained, "because they asked me to and I thought I could help them."

"I did not lie to them, I did not pretend to love them. I kept my heart free from half loves and degrading jealousies. While I waited for the coming of the King I allowed no pretender to occupy the throne of my heart."

The "King" was a young boy named Jim, younger than she, and she didn't marry him. But she would him a bit of land that she had and she wanted his wife-to-be to understand about it.

"I see his face walking or sleeping," she wrote. "I hear his voice in the silence of the night and above the roar of the streets by day. It is a love that comes to only one woman in a thousand. This love is at once an agony and a rapture, it asks and it expects no return. Be good to him, run your race in patience and may God bless you both."

Jim and his Margaret died many years before she did. The land was lost somehow. She had nothing when she died except friends to help with the final expenses—and to mourn her.

And finding the old letter made me very sad. I am unalterably opposed to cleaning out desks.

GRADUATION DANCES MUST END SOMETIME BUT THE NIGHT IS TOO YOUNG FOR CELEBRANTS

Teen-Agers Who Speak Frankly of Their After-Graduation Antics Say Some Parents Would Be Shocked by It All

After the Ball is Over

What Will the Graduates Be Doing?

By LAURA LINK

What constitutes a special celebration for graduation night?

After the graduation dance some celebrations have been termed "nightmares" by parents and students alike.

And because of these so-called nightmares the National Congress of Parents and Teachers has launched an inquiry into high school prom nights and graduation nights.

Atlanta teenagers are no different from any other teens in the country.

The graduating class usually breaks up after the dance into little groups to devise their own entertainment.

Some leave the dance and go to a breakfast at a graduate's home. But the curfew for teenagers in Atlanta puts a crimp into the plans for happy graduates.

A young Atlanta high school teacher who is close to her students says the trend now is to get out of town—to Stone Mountain, a long time favorite gathering place, or to a lake-side cottage.

One teenager who graduated from an Atlanta high school last year says he believes many parents would be shocked to know what their children do on these all night parties. "I think some of the teenagers probably regret what they did on that big night too," she said.

What are some of the things that would shock parents? A teenager tells about his recent graduation night.

"We began our party at a night spot where mixed drinks are served. We progressed from one night club to another. After we all had a few drinks we went to a cottage on a lake owned by one of the boy's parents. We took along our own liquor and sat around and talked, played records and drank. There were no chaperons.

"After a while couples wandered off to the water's edge, into the woods or into a side room."

He explained their behavior in this way:

"We felt that after graduation from high school we were adults and could do anything an adult could do. And we were out to prove it. Some of us feel like we can't have a real fling without liquor. But personally I don't feel that way."

How do parents and teachers feel about such parties?

Teachers and principals say the schools are not authorized to assume responsibility for these happy youngsters. It is up to the parents to take care of them.

One teacher commented, "Parents are over protective and under protective with their children. They don't keep up with them and I think they could do a lot more on an individual basis on this night than as a group."

Several parents approved of their teenagers staying out all night if they were properly chaperoned. But some others said it was all right for them to stay out all night and were indifferent to the circumstances of such a night.

Many parents shamefully confessed that they didn't always know where their teenagers were and what they were doing. One parent who was all for whooping it up on graduation night said, "I think they should do something a little bit different on this night but I think we should know what they are doing and where they are celebrating."

A prospective graduate commented on graduation celebrations this way: "Anybody who is old enough to graduate from high school is old enough to know how to act. But whether they do is another thing."

The majority of this year's graduating classes will celebrate with dinner dances, breakfasts and good clean fun. But there will be the few who will have to be Mr. and Miss Big Shot.

The responsibility rests on the parents, not the school, school officials say.

Helpful Tips For Future

If you are about to become a bride, here are some suggestions which may help you look your loveliest on your wedding day.

The most important thing to remember is to look natural. If you are a glamour type, be a glamorous bride. But, if you not, don't strive for an unnatural effect on this very important occasion. For instance, don't have your hair set in a style you have never worn before. An unfamiliar hairdo will not only add to your nervousness, but it will be a distracting focal point, as well.

Your make-up should be applied in shades that are most natural for your complexion and in patterns you know are best for you. To insure good results, have a make-up dress rehearsal and choose the accent colors of lipstick, eyeshadow, and eye liner that will give you the most flattering appearance against your bridal gown and under the lighting conditions of your wedding place.

Corinne Says American Husbands Are Fine If You Don't Love Them

By IRENE FERRIS
Women's News Service

PARIS—"I have returned to France to become another woman," glamorous Corinne Calvet announced on her arrival from America. She threatened to write the memoirs of her 12-year-old battle with the American way of life, mostly in Hollywood.

Theme No. 1 will prove the proposition that the joys of life are reserved for bachelors and single women.

"I know this very well because I have been single, and I have been married two times," she said behind her heavy lipstick, fantasy sun goggles and artificial curls.

In 1948 she married John Bromfield, son of author Louis Bromfield, and in 1955 she took actor Jeff Stone as her second mate.

THEME NO. 2

Her experience with American men has led her to Theme No. 2: "The American male makes a charming husband if you are not in love with him."

In such a case, a wife can walk all over him and take just what she wants without compunction. He is a willing slave, a determined bread winner and he will work himself into an early grave, leaving his widow to enjoy his spoils.

But if a girl makes the mistake of falling in love with an American boy?

Theme No. 3: "If you love him it's better not to marry him because he will drive you crazy with his immaturity."

Miss Calvet indicates that she made the grave error of falling in love with both of the men she married.

GROW UP

"Little boys are adorable," she declared, pointing to her own four-year-old son Robin. "But they ought to grow up and be men before they start proposing marriage to adult women?"

The Frenchwoman thinks that men should not cringe before head waiters, that they should be able to call a taxi, that they should be more cultured than their wives and that they should not be sitting ducks for the first woman who comes along.

"My sympathy is with the American woman," she declared. "But I think that the American mother could do more to rectify the situation by teaching her son what a woman wants in a man."

Miss Calvet's 12 years in America convinced her that American women are among the most beautiful physical specimens in the world.

"If I have any criticism of American women it is that most of the beauty is on the outside," she reported. "They are always working on the outside, and perhaps they should give more attention to what's inside."

Helpful Sewing Tip For Ambitious Ones

SEAMS TO ME
By Patricia Scott

So many of you have asked me how to prepare and make drapery headings for pleats, that I thought it a good idea to devote a column to this.

You readers have also been very adamant about wanting instructions on how to make your own headings rather than using the tapes available by the yard with woven-in pockets for pleater pins. So, for you ambitious stitchers, here goes.

Procedure is the same for lined and unlined draperies. Allow 5½" at top for heading and 5½" at bottom for 2½" double hem. Cut strips of crinoline or lawn for stiffening, 4" wide and 3" shorter than width of each drapery length. Place strip of crinoline across top on wrong side, ½" from top and 1½" from edge; stitch along lower edge; turn top edge over stiffening ½" and stitch; turn to wrong side and press. Side hems for unlined draperies may be finished by turning edge ½" to underside; then turn 1" for hem.

Pleats should be made in groups of uneven numbers—3, 5, 7—depending on number of pleats required to take up the extra fullness. Allowance should be approximately three times the width of window or space to be covered. Fullness of various types of pleats depends on weight of material and fullness of curtain desired. To figure the spacings and amount to be taken up in pleats, determine (1) space to be covered plus (2) return—that is the distance from turn of rod to the wall—plus (3) 2" for center overlap. Subtract these three measurements from width of drapery and you have the amount of fullness left for pleats.

Here's an example using 3" for return (but please note that the return can be 4" or 5" depending on type of rod or bracket used. ALWAYS MEASURE THE RETURN):

If half the space to be covered is 49" then one section of the drapery, taking round numbers, would be about 145" wide after finishing side hems (3 times width). To width of area (49") add 3" return, 2" center overlap totaling 54". Subtract 54" from drapery width 145" and you have 91" for pleats, allowing you 7" per pleat, requiring 13 pleats to take up fullness. Space between each pleat will measure 3½".

Measure and mark exact position and width of pleats before stitching. Measure width of return from outer edge; then measure for the first pleat at curve of rod. Second pleat is placed on opposite side, 2" from center edge. Third pleat is exact center between first and second pleats. Get exact center between first and third pleats and second and third pleats for position of fourth and fifth pleats, (illustration). Continue until all pleats are marked.

To form pleats, bring markings together, stitch straight down to ¼" below heading. Reverse the stitch at either end.

This procedure is used for all types of pleats. Pinch pleats, for instance, are a great favorite and are particularly good on heavier fabric. One of the most effective ways of controlling fullness of a drapery and allowing it to fall gracefully is in the use of various pleats.

freezer, the sealed-in-plastic woollens can be taken out and stored. The pre-storage processing can be done two or three packages at a time, or as many as the freezer will hold.

One word of caution. This method is not recommended for furs, as the pelts might become brittle and crack.

What do young preachers, just graduated from theology schools, think about churches and the world as they set out on professional footing for the first time? Sally Sanford, Journal staffer, finds the answers to such questions as their reactions to pressure of custom and circumstance, their hopes and fears about congregation response, salaries, whom they look to for leadership. Georgians Map Boost In Exports American businessmen should "take a fresh look at today's opportunities in foreign trade," Paul H. Brent, executive secretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce National Export Expansion Committee said here Thursday.

Many restrictions have been recently lifted, and the U.S. Government is currently exploring world markets for American products, Brent told members of a regional export expansion committee at an Atlanta luncheon.

The Washington expert reported there is "the potential for sale of at least one-half billion dollars more by U.S. businessmen in the Western European market alone this year."

The recently formed regional committee, headed by Chairman W. H. Wilkerson, president of Auto-Soler Co. here, mapped plans for increased participation by Georgia in export trade. Other committee members include D. English Clark, president, Atlanta Oak Flooring Co.; Clifford M. Clarke Jr., executive vice president, Associated Industries of Georgia; Alex Conrad, manager, Export Department, Georgia Pacific Co., Augusta; E. Ward Faulk, senior vice president, Merchants National Bank, Mobile; L. R. Hoffman, export manager, American Mills Co.; Merrill C. Lofton, Atlanta Field Office, U.S. Department of Commerce; Robert C. Hubby Forgot but Police Didn't: Wife Gets Her Birthday Surprise

Mrs. Eugene F. Dearing Jr., of 71 Long Island Pl., NW, Thursday got a surprise birthday gift after all.

Mrs. Dearing had missed a 12-karat diamond ring valued at $900 a month ago.

She recalled having discussed with her husband the possibility of having the stone remounted and she thought he had decided to go ahead with it as a surprise birthday present.

Mrs. Dearing said nothing about the missing ring.

When her birthday rolled around Thursday and her husband did not present the newly mounted stone, Mrs. Dearing called police.

Lt. L. T. Bullard located the ring in a pawn shop, where it had been placed in pawn for $15 on April 16—at about the same time Mrs. Dearing first missed it.

Atlanta presently is listed as the site for one of them, although the decision is not final.

Nixon reportedly hopes to make an appearance in every region of the country, and in most of the states, before the GOP convention in late July.

A CADILLAC SALE YOU HAVE NEVER SEEN ANYTHING LIKE

A big lot full of late model Cadillacs. Practically everybody's style and color. Most of these Cadillacs have all power and air conditioning and many have from 2,000 to 10,000 miles. We have some that we delivered after the '60 models came out in September, 1959, the very latest models. We also have some '60 models of big savings. You can buy a practically new Cadillac for less than the price of most of the medium priced cars. We also have models from '54 thru '58. Some of these older models are just as clean as the later models. For 10 days during this sale we'll guarantee you cannot buy the same quality Cadillac for anything near the price you can get it here for. If you don't see what you want on the lot ask the salesman what we have in the storage house. Beginning Thursday we will be open until 10:00 for ten days. You out-of-town people come on to Atlanta and select a Cadillac from one of the largest stocks and best selections of Cadillacs in the entire country. I will ask you this question and you be the judge. A '59 model Cadillac with everything that sold for $6,700 in September 1959 or a '59 model with everything, selling now for $2,000 less. Which would be the best buy? I sell these slightly used Cadillacs to some of the richest people in Georgia that tell me, "I will always buy a Cadillac that has been slightly used if I can save enough." Get on the ball, we won't run out. We know where we can get plenty more. And, by the way, the reason we can sell these Cadillacs for less—we have the following throughout the country. We know how and where to get them.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR LARRY GREEN (L) OF MURPHY STATE CHAMPS
But Marietta's Charles Bagby (C), College Park's Jim Tumlin Will Be His Foes Tonight

Sharp City Pitchers to Test Greater Atlanta Bat Power of Marvin Hudson (Tucker), Charles Beckett (Smyrna), and Bill Hare (Marietta) and Joe Pennington (Chamblee) catching.

Behind Shi, Hearn will work Sylvan lefthander Tommy Chapman and North Fulton righthander Wade St. John.

Rackley follows Bagby with Smyrna lefty Kenny Cargile and College Park righthander Tommy Fields.

Though the Greater Atlanta club is stacked with big batting averages, the city has two of the most powerful batters around in Rakestraw and Stelljes. Rakestraw had a 1,000-plus slugging average and is expected to shoot for the cozy leftfield fence at Poncey. Stelljes led the City League in homers with five, and the slim junior may reach the rightfield tins.

The City regained Murphy third baseman Larry Greene Thursday, and the agile third sacker socked a 370-foot drive in batting practice. He whaled a 400-foot triple against Griffin Wednesday night as Murphy won the AAA championship, 4-0, and excelled in the field.

Besides the game itself, there'll be extras. Paul Anderson will lift all four umpires; The Monroe Girls' Drum and Bugle Corps will march; Mr. America, Harry Johnson, will put on a muscle control demonstration; Georgia Tech's Chick Granning and Georgia's Fred Brown will duel in a special 100-yard dash; the Atlanta Concert Band will serenade; and Most Popular Prep Player will be announced.

Lookouts Obtain Cade, Young;

Chattanooga and Mobile, fighting to get out of the second division in the Southern Assn., obtained player help Wednesday.

Spook Jacobs' Lookouts acquired southpaw pitcher Jerry Cade (0-2) from Nashville and third baseman Dick Young, .462 as a pinch hitter (6 to 13), from Mobile.

Young, who hit .343 in 52 games for the 1959 Bears was peddled to make room on the roster for infielder Mike De la Hoz, acquired from another Cleveland farm club, Toronto (International League).

Glove artist De la Hoz, 21, hit .295 in 1959 for Reading (Class A Eastern). It marked the Bears' fifth player change of the week.

Clemente Paces Easy Win, 8-3

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped St. Louis 8-3 Thursday night and took sole possession of first place in the National League.

The Pirates, who have won eight of their last nine games, moved a half-game in front of San Francisco, whose game at Milwaukee was rained out.

Roberto Clemente sparked the Pirates 13-hit attack with two doubles and pair of singles.

Pittsburgh's rookie southpaw, Joe Gibbon got the victory with help from reliever Fred Green in the eighth. He is 3-1.

Gibbon had a shutout until the seventh when the Cards put together three singles for their first run. He lost his touch completely in the eighth when he issued his only two walks, uncorked a wild pitch and yielded a single that counted another run.

Green came on and retired the side but gave up another Card run in the ninth when Bob Nieman belted his second triple of the game and scored on a sacrifice fly.

The Cardinals' 19-year-old rookie southpaw, Ray Sadecki, making his first major league start, was clipped for eight hits in 2-3 innings.

Pinson Triple Tips Dodgers for Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—Vada Pinson tripled off the scoreboard with two out in the ninth Thursday night to score Eddie Kasko with the run that gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The triumph moved the Reds into third place ahead of idle Milwaukee.

Kasko's single, scoring Elio Chacon, tied the score 4-4. Chacon reached first when Junior Gilliam let his bunt roll and it stayed fair. He stole second before scoring.

Ashburn Wrecks Phillies, 4-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Richie Ashburn made his return to Connie Mack Stadium a memorable one Thursday night, tripling in the eighth inning and then scoring a tie-breaking run that gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. He also drove in an extra run in the ninth.

Ashburn, who played 12 seasons with the Phillies before being traded last winter, picked an unlikely way to become a hero. Long regarded as a singles hitter, Richie unloaded a 390-foot smash near the center field scoreboard for three bases. He came in on Bob Will's foul fly to Ken Walters. In the ninth with bases loaded, Richie hit into a force play and Don Zimmer crossed the plate.

Ashburn made a losing pitcher out of his favorite former team-

Anderson throttled the Phillies with five hits—three of them singles in the third inning when the Phillies scored once. The Eyes a-glitter with visions of whoppers, Andy pulled the outboard's starter cord . . . and pulled . . . while his pals "pulled out" for the happy fishing grounds. Here he was, left at the dock, nursing a bad temper and a stalled outboard motor. The rest of the gang returned—with stringers full of fish—while Andy still fumed.

Moral: prevent the frustration of a balky outboard motor. Get New Phillips 66 Outboard Motor Oil. AL KALINE CONFIRMS HE OWNS RACE HORSES

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Tiger outfielder Al Kaline Thursday confirmed reports that he is part-owner of a string of race horses.

The disclosure came as a surprise to the Tiger management. President Bill De Witt told newsmen:

"I just heard about it yesterday. I'll say this—that I don't believe baseball and racing mix. I'll have a little talk with Kaline. Perhaps he needs a little guidance."

E. C. (Doc) Greene broke the story Thursday in his sports column in the Detroit News.

Greene said he contacted baseball Commissioner Ford Frick at Washington for comment on the report. He quoted Frick as saying he would not discuss the matter until he received a full report from Tiger officials.

De Witt pointed out that since the days of the late Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, there has been more or less an unwritten rule in baseball circles that baseball and horse racing do not mix.

AL KALINE

He said the policy developed because of Landis' fierce desire to make certain that baseball players and professional gamblers did not fraternize.

Kaline told newsmen: "I'd sort of wanted to keep this thing quiet. But I suppose it would have to come out. Not that I am ashamed of it. I like racine. It relaxes me. Some people like to go to the ball park for relaxation. I like to go to the track. But I was afraid that maybe the fans would get on me . . . going bad like I am now . . ."

"Gordie Howe (the Red Wings hockey star) and I have this company and it makes a good investment for tax reasons—horse racing expenses can be deducted for a period of three years. Gordie is not much interested in horses and hasn't much to say in this. A third partner, Frankie Carlin, runs the stable now.

"We run as the HKC (Howe-Kaline-Carlin) stable and have been at Toledo race track and will be at the Detroit race course which opens tomorrow.

"We've been doing fair. We've got a five-year-old named Mr. Bruce and a three-year-old named Challenge Boy that have done all right. We've won about six races."

"I've never cared much for horses and as far as I am concerned, none of my personal funds are invested in any race horses," said Howe.

De Witt said he planned to talk to Kaline in the next day or two to find out more about the outfielder's horse racing interests.

"I would wonder if it affected his baseball playing. That would be my chief concern and I don't suppose it would," De Witt said.

He added, "The objection is not to racing. The notion has been that ball players might meet and know some gamblers through association with it. Naturally, we would not like that."

Dow announces a major automotive development

NEW PRODUCT OUTMODES WATER AND ANTIFREEZE

DOWGARD*

World's first year 'round cooling system fluid

New scientific formulation replaces water in summer, antifreeze in winter. Stops rust and corrosion damage, protects against freezing and overheating for 12 full months. Offers new concept of carefree motoring—summer and winter. Should be installed now for greatest benefits!

If you value performance and economy, you will want to have this new product from Dow installed in your cooling system immediately.

You see, ordinary water—even with the addition of antifreeze or a rust inhibitor—can cause rust and corrosion in your cooling system. This

If left unchecked, rust coating on cylinder walls can clog water passages can lead to poor gas mileage, ping, knock, reduced heater-defroster efficiency. And, if left unchecked, burned valves, warped cylinders and heads can result.

New concept—Complete fill

However, now you can end worrisome cooling system problems by having DOWGARD cooling system fluid installed in your car. It is a complete formulation, a new blend of protective chemicals and specially treated de-ionized water. DOWGARD fills the cooling system completely from top to bottom. Nothing else is added—no water, antifreeze or rust inhibitors!

Lasts one full year

DOWGARD protects from 240°F. above zero to 40°F. below. It is the only coolant you can buy that prevents overheating in summer, freezing in winter.

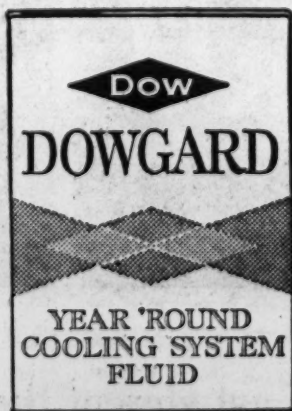

Why now? Stops summer rust

Rust and corrosion can form many times faster in summer than in winter. This is particularly true when old antifreeze is left in the cooling system. The only sure way to prevent this damage, and the trouble it brings, is to have DOWGARD installed now.

Sold only at service dealers

Get DOWGARD at your regular service dealer and enjoy the equivalent of a sealed cooling system for one full year. It's a premium product that gives your car the protection it deserves—one of the wisest investments you can make.

Hughes Defeats Tucker for Crown

Uprising in 7th Gives Macon Class B Championship

By DAVE MERRITT
Constitution Sports Writer

THOMASTON—Dudley Hughes is Champ. The Macon team rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh, defeated Tucker, 2-1, and won the Georgia High School Class B baseball title here Thursday night.

It was not without heartbreak Jimmy Wilson held Hughes to one hit going into the seventh, a bloop single on the lip of the outfield grass by catcher Butch Peeler in the fifth.

But like a figure from Conrad, Wilson was an instrument of his own destruction.

There were signs in the early chapters of the game. He was wild.

He struck out nine with a Mansfield-shaped curve and an electric fast ball, but he walked six and hit three.

Tucker won a 1-0 lead in the top of the sixth.

C. L. Sharpton flied high and deep down the left-field line. Hughes' left fielder Bill Cox took the ball, but let it trickle out of his glove.

Sharpton rolled into second.

Then Wilson punched a single five feet to right of second scoring Sharpton.

Tucker was through.

In the bottom of the seventh, Donnie Moore beat out a roller to deep short. Benny Spires bunted safely as Tucker played who's on first.

Wilson then walked Bill Saffold on a 3-2 pitch to load 'em up, hit Peeler to force in Moore, grooved a fast ball to right fielder Riley Flowers and saw the ball sneak over the third baseman's head to score Spires with the winning run.

Jimmy Stanley, Hughes' exciting southpaw with a flirtatious high hard one, spaced four Tucker hits and struck out 10, but Hughes made five errors to keep him teetering on brink of disaster and his volatile coach, Godfrey Steiner, on the brink of apoplexy.

In the afternoon game Tucker defeated Fayette County, 7-4, as Marvin Hudson pitched nine-hit ball and thumped a 400-foot homer.

Edwin Oliver pitched a commendable game for Fayette, but shoddy (seven errors) put the verdict above suspicion.

Hughes advanced to the finals by coming from way away with a six-run fourth and going on to nip Camden County, 8-7, in eight innings.

James Stanley, who relieved Benny Spires in the seventh, was credited with the victory. Tony Parr, second of two Camden pitchers, took the loss.

The class C semifinals will be played here Friday afternoon.

Clay County and Evans play at 1 and Ludowici battles Coosa at 3. Finals are scheduled for 7 p.m.

A STORMY HEARING

Sugar Ray Draws Suspension

BALTIMORE (UPI) — After a stormy hearing, the Maryland State Athletic Commission Thursday night suspended indefinitely Sugar Ray Robinson for failure to fulfill a fight contract in Baltimore last Monday night.

George Gainford, advisor to the former middleweight and welterweight champion, was exonerated on a similar charge.

Charles Rosenbaum, commission chairman, said he would advise California, New York and Massachusetts of the action.

Should Massachusetts concur, it could mean cancellation of Robinson's return shot at the middleweight crown (Massachusetts and New York version) against champion Paul Pender at Boston, June 10.

The charges rose out of Robinson's failure to show up Monday night for a tune-up bout with Pedro Gonzales at Memorial Stadium.

At one point in the hearing, Robinson almost came to blows with Promoter Al Flora.

They squared off and were about to exchange punches when friends pulled them apart. Sugar Ray had just yelled at Flora, who was on the witness stand: "You're a damned liar!"

Then, turning away, Robinson had said, "For two cents I'd bust him one!"

Dark-haired, muscular Flora—a former boxer—leaped from the witness chair, took a fighter's stance and advanced on the ex-champion. Robinson also cocked his fists. Then friends intervened.

The commission decision said that it found:

"That Ray Robinson had a binding contract with the promoter to appear on Saturday, May 14, 1960 at the Baltimore Memorial Stadium; that the boxing show was postponed to the announced rain date, Monday, May 16; that Robinson has admitted his intentions on that date, but claims to have been advised by his employee that his contest had been

GMC Collars Norman, Ties Playoff, 16-4

MILLEDGEVILLE—Dale Stone cracked a bases-empty homer to put GMC ahead, and the Bulldogs went on to lace Norman Park, 16-4, and even the Georgia Junior College Conference baseball playoff at one game apiece.

Stone's homer came in the fifth and snipped a 4-4 knot.

The victory went to Larry Knuth, who toiled the distance behind some lusty hitting.

Youmans and Willie Moore had three hits apiece for GMC, while Tom Bush was 2-for-4 for the losers.

Now the title goes to the final game Friday. Norman Park Coach Lowell Mulkey will go with either Allen Thomas or Don Hamm, while Ruark has nominated George Walker (3-0) to pitch for GMC. Game time is 3:15 p.m.

Blassie Meets Eric Pederson

Eric Pederson and Fred Blassie come to grips again Friday night at the City Auditorium in a "Texas Death" match, highlighting the wrestling card.

The semifinal brings together two of the nation's leading women wrestlers, The Lady Angel and Marie Ramsey. A special attraction pits Mickey Blassie against Bill Drano, while the night's opener has Lou Whitson tangling with Prince Nero.

The Pederson-Blassie "Texas Death" duel will not be stopped until one man is unable to continue.

Dickinson Leads Golf

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Gardner Dickinson's putter behaved magically Thursday and carried him to a 5-under-par 65 for the first round lead of the Sam Snead Golf Festival.

The 32-year-old, 127-pound pro from West Palm Beach, Fla., enjoyed a two-stroke lead over his nearest competitors, Garry Nixon of the home course and Dave Marr of Cedarhurst, N.Y.

Two others, Joe Taylor of Charleston, W.Va., and Brian Charter of Greenville, S.C., were next with 68s on the 6,497-yard course ruled over by Snead for nearly quarter of a century.

But Snead, who has won 5 of the 12 tournaments here, could do no better than equal par 70.

FLORIDA GIVEN OUTSIDE CHANCE

LSU FAVORED IN SEC TRACK MEET

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Auburn and host Florida have the largest number of entries in the 28th annual Southeastern Conference track meet here Friday and Saturday but Louisiana State remains the favorite to win its fourth straight title.

Auburn and Florida each has 23 individuals entered. LSU has 18. Alabama has 12. Georgia Tech and Kentucky each 11. Tulane 10, Georgia 9, Mississippi State 8, Tennessee 6, Mississippi 5 and Vanderbilt 4.

Coach Al Moreau's LSU trackmen are favored with only Florida rated a chance to beat the Tigers out for first place.

Georgia Tech, Alabama, Auburn and Kentucky should score next best.

Trials Friday afternoon will determine how many from each school make Saturday afternoon's finals and LSU is expected to qualify the most.

The defending champs have more balanced strength than any other team. They have Ralph Fabian and Jim Fornaris in the dashes, Dickie Durham in the hurdles, Carl Seefield in the 880, Joe Harris in the pole vault, Fred McKellar in the broad jump and Lew Bandaries in the shot put as potential top point getters.

Florida is handicapped by the lack of dash men but has Tommy Michels in the hurdles, Bill Lowenstein in the 440, Ron Allen in the 880 and mile, Henry Wadsworth in the pole vault and high jump, Art Foster in the broad jump and John Hale in the javelin.

Potential blue ribbon winners from the other schools include Buddy Gum of Kentucky in the 440, Press Whelan of Kentucky in the mile and two-mile, Ron Ablowich of Georgia Tech in the hurdles, Richard Crane of Auburn in the discus and shot put, Howie Moss of Tennessee in the high jump, Don Soberdash of Georgia in the javelin and Ed Nutting of Georgia Tech in the shot put.

If there are peak performances all the way, as many as eight records could be set in the 16 events.

The best bets are in the shot put, pole vault and 880.

Florida's Wadsworth has vaulted 15 feet. The conference record is 14 feet 2 1/2 inches.

Georgia Tech's Nutting has tossed the shot 58 feet 7 inches. The conference record is 53 feet 1 1/4 inches.

LSU's Seefield has run the 880 in 1 minute 52.2 seconds. The conference record is 1:52.8.

Other records are possible in the high and low hurdles, discus, broad jump and 440.

The Preparade

Mock's 'Eighth Graders' Grew Up Fast, Rode Guthrie To AAA Championship

By PAUL ATKINSON

The inscription on the handsome trophy was simple and to the point:

"1960, State AAA Baseball champions."

But it didn't tell all—by a long shot—of how this Murphy High School team came to be the champs.

Coach Julian Mock was talking about it late Wednesday night at the Upton Hotel in Thomas-ton. His Eagles had just clipped another Eagles' (defending champion Griffin) wings, 4-0, in 11 innings on four-hit pitching by David Guthrie and Weldon Crook.

"This one typified our whole season," began Mock. "Nothing came easy for us. The kids and they're that, for none of 'em are seniors" worked for everything they got.

"You know when I came to Murphy four seasons ago, the school had just won one 3-AAA game the year previous. My rebuilding plan? Well, first I went out and got up an eighth-grade team. That first eighth-grade team, coached by Charlie Denning, is this bunch right now, for the most part—Guthrie, Jimmy Battle, Crook, Jere Ard, Larry Greene, Mike Fisher and Charles Burrows.

"Of course, we've added Roy Jarrett, Wayne McDaniel and Danny Tate."

Jarrett's a freshman, while McDaniel and Tate are sophomores. Tate was brought up from the B team six games from the end of the season, and it was his unassisted double play which killed off Griffin's last rally in the 11th.

Guthrie, naturally, has been the workhorse. He's 6-4 and 200 pounds and can fog that baseball. His earned run average for the season was 0.96, and he had 96 strikeouts and only 19 walks in 67 innings. And he had a string of 17 consecutive scoreless innings at Griffin's expense in the tournament.

"That first day gave us the big start in the tournament," continued Mock. "The fellows knew they could do it when they won 3-0 from Griffin and 3-0 from Moultrie behind Guthrie and Crook.

"And even though they lost to Griffin, 18-2, Tuesday, they weren't really downhearted. Gee, I guess that's why it's so great to be young."

And champions.

PREPPING AROUND: Veteran state tournament observers can't recall a more spectacular feat than Guthrie's in the fourth inning Wednesday, when after loading the bases, he struck out the side. And the 2,000-plus fans who turned out for the finale made up the largest crowd since 1948 for a tournament game. . . . Murphy football coach Lefty Thompson was glad to see the tournament concluded. For Jarrett, Burrows, and McDaniel are his quarterbacks, Guthrie his end, Greene a halfback and Fisher a fullback. They'll go out for late spring training now. . . . And on football, Benedictine's Vic Mell is optimistic over the backfield he'll field in '60. He'll go with quarterback Barry Wilson (175), fullback Mike Fasola (195), right halfback Hank Lehwald (190) and left half Egan Shepard (190). Mell'll need 'em because his non-region games include defending state AAA champion Albany, always-tough Waycross and a new foe, Miami (Fla.) Senior High. "That," moaned Mell, "is likely the toughest non-region schedule of any team in the state." . . . Savannah High renews a series with an old rival, Lanier of Macon, too.

YOU WON'T FIND A KEENER COMPETITOR than Griffin's little Stanley Brown, a 5-1 mite who knows what baseball's about. He socked four hits in the Eagles' 18-2 win over Murphy Tuesday while playing right field, and his two-run pinch-single capped a big rally that stopped Moultrie, 7-4. . . . Smyrna's baseball team named left-handed pitcher Kenny Cargile, a prime candidate for the GHSA-Constitution Sponsored Greater Atlanta vs. The State, its most valuable player. Incidentally, that team will be announced Sunday in the Journal-Constitution. . . . Word from Richmond Academy's A. L. Williams: "Charles Tarpley is the best-fielding first baseman we've had." And when a first-sacker gets those words from Mr. Williams, they mean something. Tarpley was named MVP of the team. . . . And the Albany Journal's John Garrett likes the look of second baseman-catcher Danny Breeden, who hit .470 with four homers in eight games. "He's got the best arm I've seen in high school baseball," marvels Garrett.

THOMASVILLE'S JOE SUMRALL was high on his shortstop, Larry Johnson. . . . West Rome's Ray Dougherty has been a home run hero this season. He whacked a bases-empty homer in the eighth inning to give the Romans a 5-4 win over Rossville and earlier had socked a 360-foot, two-run shot to beat Rockmart, 3-1. . . . Four of the state's classiest small school baseball players are on display at Thomaston this week. Little left-hander Wayne Espy of Coosa is one of the best; ditto right-handers Benny Spires of Dudley Hughes, Marvin Hudson and Jimmy Wilson of Tucker. . . . Final note on Murphy's victory. It was made up of little things, such as this: Outfielder Jimmy Hobson, only in his third game this season, waited out a walk with the bases loaded to force in the second run of the big 11th and kept the rally going.

Machen Eyes Ingo, Fights Alex Miteff

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Machen still hopes to get another chance at Ingemar Johansson, who knocked him out in one round in 1958. The Portland, Ore., heavyweight continues his campaign toward a shot at the title by boxing Alex Miteff, a ranked contender, Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

Machen is listed No. 4 among the heavies. Miteff, the inconsistent Argentine, is rated No. 6 by Ring and No. 7 by the National Boxing Assn. Both of the ratings put Sonny Liston, Floyd Patterson and Zora Folley above Machen although not necessarily in that order. Machen is Friday's favorite.

Since his disastrous encounter with Johansson's right hand at Goteborg, Sweden, Sept. 14, 1958, Machen has won eight of nine starts. His record for 35 pro fights is 32-2-1 with 20 knockouts.

Machen, a 5-11 1/4 puncher, came back from the knockout to whip young Jack Johnson, Clarence Williams, Reuben Vargas (twice), Garvin Sawyer, Willie Besmanoff and Pat McMurry before losing to Folley. He has fought only once since the Folley match, stopping Billy Hunter in nine rounds at the Garden Feb. 26.

Looks Rip Crackers in Wild Game and 15 minutes it took to play the first 2½ innings, Chattanooga manager Spook Jacobs announced he was playing a game under protest for the second time in three nights, and Atlanta pilot Rube Walker was thumbed from the premises for the third time this season.

But the blame for shoddy Cracker pitching could be laid only on the shoulders of Snyder, Ed Strickel, Rick Cronk and Don Thompson, the four who preceded Jim Harwell in the parade to the mound.

None was effective and the quartet apparently subscribed to the theory that "charity begins at home." For they handed out 11 free passes, and few games are won when that much free transportation is provided and the enemy snacks out 10 hits.

After falling into 3-0 arrears in the first three innings again, hit-happy Cracker batsmen put on one of their patented come-from-behind victory bids.

Bill Lajoie smashed his fourth home run of the season with singling Dick Tracewski and walking Gene Wallace aboard to tie a 3-3 knot in the fifth. And an inning later Tim Harkness provided the Crackers a 4-3 bulge and himself the Southern Assn. homer leadership by ripping his ninth round-tripper over the right-field signs.

But Strickel was "gopher hit"

UMPS RUSS AND DON FISHER HEAR PROTEST FROM LOOKOUT MANAGER
"Was It a Homer Or a Double?" Asks Chattanooga's Spook Jacobs

this night and couldn't hold the fort. The right-hander, who had been tagged for a two-run homer by Tom Shollin in the third frame was raked for a duplicate by Davis in the seventh.

That 5-4 lead was enough, pinning Strickel with his third defeat without a victory. But the Lookouts punched over an insurance run in the same inning.

A single by Milo finished Strickel and brought on Cronk. Then a force play, stolen base, error, walk and Al Grandcolas' single provided the tally.

Milo, only Lookout pitcher to beat the Crackers all year, wasn't certain of his second victory over them yet, though. For Tracewski opened the ninth with his fourth single, an infield "leg job."

But Milo coaxed Al Fantuzzi of grand-slam pinch hitting fame into rapping into a double play, then made Wallace his fifth whiff victim. That altered his chart to 5-2 right there.

Tracewski, Lajoie and Jim Koranda accounted for eight of the 10 safeties the southpaw permitted. Shollin, with three hits, and Davis provided half the Lookout total.

It was a Davis blast with Shollin on first base in the second that started the rhabarbering. The sky-scraper hit on the shelf above the bottom row of signs in right-center, rolled along the shelf and fell off behind the new wire fence that stretches across center-field.

Plate ump Don Fisher and base ump Russell Fisher were assailed from all sides for a half hour as the blow was first called a double, then a homer and at last a double.

Walker got Don's thumb when he screamed over coach Charlie Letch's dashing onto the field and screaming "balk" with the bases loaded and Snyder on the mound moments later. Ump Don then called it a balk, too, and the riot was on again.

The Crackers, tied for third place with Shreveport, move into Birmingham for four games in three days. Pete Richert (5-2) will hurl the Friday night opener (8:30).

CRACKER CRUMBS—Harkness finished the home stand with 19 hits in 33 trips, 14 runs-batted-in, 9 runs scored. His blows included 3 homers, 2 triples and 3 doubles.

The loss snapped the Crackers' 3-game victory skid and was their second in 7 games. Against the Lookouts they are 5-2.

Home-cooking agrees with the Walkermen. They're 14-8 at Poncey, 5-9 on foreign soil. . . .

Ernie Gravez was on base 17 times, 11 times on hits and 10 consecutive times, in a five-game series in Little Rock. But at Poncey the littlest Lookout suffered through a 2-for-16 slump. . . . The Crackers' won 5 of 8 during the home stay. . . . Only five pitchers have negotiated the route against Atlanta, Milo and Nashville's Jim Maloney turning the trick twice each.

Yanks, A's Again: Carey For Cerv
away Gene Woodling. Cerv, the muscular former Nebraska football player, had a tremendous year with the A's in 1958 when, playing with a wired up jaw after an accident, he drove in 104 runs, hit 38 homers and batted .305. His average dropped to .285 last year but he hit 30 homers and knocked in 87 runs. This season he is hitting .260 with six homers and 12 RBI. He hit three home runs last Sunday in a doubleheader with Detroit.

Carey, 28, played only 41 games last year before he was placed on the disabled list, suffering from mononucleosis. He batted .257. McDougald took over the third base job at St. Petersburg this spring, leaving the slick fielding Carey on the bench. He had been up only three times with one 1960 hit for a .333 average.

Manager Casey Stengel announced the deal shortly after Yankees arrived here from Cleveland.

"We went five places looking for pitchers but we couldn't make a deal," said Stengel. "So we made this one. This gives me another handyman. Cerv can play anywhere in the outfield and Carey played only third base. I might decide to let (Yogi) Berra do some catching again."

Berra has been playing left field in most of the games this spring. When Frank Lane, Cleveland general manager and one of the Yankees' loudest critics, heard about the deal he said he thought the A's got the better of it.

"When Casey gets tired of seeing Yogi circling around under fly balls in left field he can send Cerv out there and watch him circle around the same way," said Lane.

Cerv came up through the Yankee farm system after graduating from the University of Nebraska. He played with the Yanks in all or part of the years from 1951 through 1956.

GOLF LED TO NEW CAREER IN WILDS

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

At least two or three fellows—who no doubt found the reading of this trivia very difficult indeed—have asked me point blank how I managed to get into the hunting and fishing business, instead of some organized sport like baseball, football or golf.

I knew that if I answered fully, they would be in for a rather long and difficult dissertation. Or it may have been that I was sort of embarrassed to admit that such things as ornery bull moose, ill-tempered grizzlies and alligator gators trying to bit off a hand, held more appeal than getting the manhood slammed out of me by some guy I'd rather have as a friend.

The truth is that I did try those organized activities at least some of them—and thereby accumulated vast respect for fellows who select and are competent to follow them as chosen careers.

Baseball, for instance, I tried that. The coach put me in the outfield but I couldn't seem to judge the high balls—that's two words—so he figured maybe I'd go better behind the plate where at least some part of my mitt or me might be able to stop the ball.

In that hot spot, they came to a quick decision that I lacked concentration. My own thought was that I had too much. I couldn't take my eyes off the bat in the other guy's hand. I'd see the ball leave the fingers of the pitcher, but to save my soul, I couldn't keep my sights on it. I simply had to know whether that big stick would connect. The result was that I when the bat did miss the ball, so did I. After I'd been hit in the catcher's mask and knocked on my home plate half a dozen times, the manager decided that even a concrete wall behind the plate would be more proficient than I.

I did manage a fairly creditable game of tennis, but never got the knack of springing lightly over the net to congratulate my more successful opponent—and he usually was, whether my feet were too tired, or I wasn't born to be a jumper, I managed to get just high enough to tangle the strings of my tennis shoes in the top of the net, and land upside-down in the middle of the enemy court. When I gave him my hand, he thought I wanted to be pulled to my feet.

Football was too brutal. I didn't mind the cleats in my eyes, or the friendly twist some guy would give my nose when he caught me on the bottom of the pile and figured he could render me hors de combat by disassembling my small appendage. All that was a part of the battle.

The only touchdown I ever made was when a couple of bruisers on my own team, picked me up by the seat of the pants and threw me bodily over the pile where both teams were butting heads on the goal line. That relieved the game of at least one more mediocre performer.

Eventually I got around to golf. That's the game from which I graduated into this wildlife business. It was years before I knew that a fairway was used for something besides a soft carpet, laid out from rough to rough. I spent so much time in pine thickets and sedge fields, and paddling around in creeks and swamp edges, looking for lost golf balls, that I began to feel at home in those places. I realized that when I jumped a rabbit or flushed a covey of quail. I might possibly do better with a gun instead of the golf club in my hands.

That's the route by which I got into this outdoor business. Oh yes—there was one more sport, but I reckon I'm too old to even think back that far. Anyway, that's another story.

testimony, they shook hands and chatted amiably.

Frick gave Johnson a playful poke in the ribs, and, within earshot of newsmen and others, said "Ed, I wouldn't take that from anyone else but you."

The exchanges marked public hearings by the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee whose chairman, Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), is author of the disputed bill.

Two of the measure's most contested provisions would declare it a federal offense to hinder the formation of a new league such as the Continental, and would place drastic limits on how many players any club could control.

Frick said the measure "could collapse the whole (organized baseball) structure—major and minor" if it becomes law, and surely would sound a death knell for the minor leagues.

Nothing in Frick's statement told of any headway in negotiations between the established leagues and the Continental.

William Shea, head of the New York entry in the Continental, in a bitter blast, said the new league will never get major league recognition unless the bill is enacted.

To go ahead, he said, the new league "would have to go into a war or a raid" to sign up players already under contract to teams in other leagues.

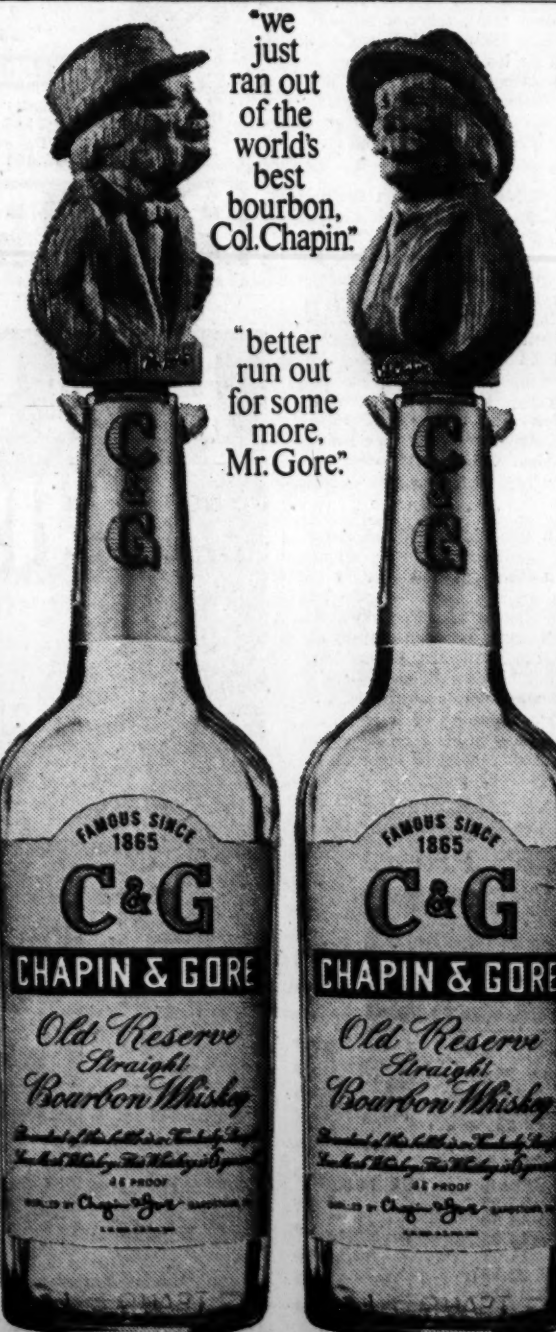

"They are pushing us," Shea said. "It looks to me like they are trying to drive us into an open war, to see if we have the courage to do it."

Salesman Free on Bail In Money Order Case

A one-time Marietta salesman who is alleged to have posed as an Atlanta attorney in an attempt to free an acquaintance held in the Chattanooga jail was released Thursday under $10,000 bond on charges of possessing stolen postal money orders.

He was identified as Hugh Roy Conner, 45, who posted the bond at Fulton Tower following a hearing Wednesday before the U.S. commissioner. Conner was taken into custody Monday by Marietta police who said they found 1,470 of the money orders and rubber validating stamps hidden in a spare tire Conner had left at a service station.

1,700 STOLEN

Postal Inspector J. Robert Sims of Chattanooga said the money orders were part of 1,700 reported stolen in the April 11 burglary of a post office at Eastaboga, Ala. Sims said the money orders, if cashed, carried a total money value of $170,000.

Robert Edward Chitwood, 28, of Atlanta, was arrested May 3 in Chattanooga, officers said, after he cashed three money orders and attempted to cash a fourth.

Federal authorities said the man who had posed as Salem later was found to be Conner.

Training Schools Vital, Judges Say

COLUMBUS—The critical need for additional state-supported juvenile training schools facilities in Georgia took the lion's share of discussion here Thursday at the opening session of a two-day convention of the Georgia Juvenile Court Judges Assn.

Participating in the discussion were eight of Georgia's 23 juvenile court judges, a former juvenile court official and W. E. Ireland, director of the State Training School for Boys, Milledgeville. Ireland appeared at the meeting at the request of the judges to discuss current operations and to tell them why they must wait indefinite periods before being able to commit juvenile offenders to the state training schools.

The judges also heard reports from state committees by Judge W. W. Woolfolk of Atlanta and Henry T. Brice of Valdosta, and a discussion of "Spiritual Needs of Children in Trouble" by R. C. Johnson, director of rehabilitation, Columbus Baptist Assn. Judge Woolfolk reported on the possible formation of a state youth commission to administer the training school program and Judge Brice gave a report on the problem of getting offenders admitted to training schools.

There was concern that the disease might spread. Dr. J. Gregg Smith, county health officer, said his office was trying to collect all facts concerning the case. The boy, Edward Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Coleman of nearby Clayville, became violently ill last Wednesday.

So Easy to Apply...So Sure to Last... Du Pont's New LUCITE® House Paint

"Lucite" Makes the Difference, and Only Du Pont Makes "Lucite". Hard, satin-smooth surface of "Lucite" forms a protective shield against dirt, grime and destructive weather, over wood, stucco or masonry.

Paint Blistering Problem Now 90% Solved by Du Pont "Lucite" House Paint Over New Primer

Blistering, long the homeowners' biggest headache, now gives way to the chemical research that created Du Pont "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint. Used over new Du Pont Blister-Resistant Primer, on new wood or on old surfaces from which the paint has been removed, it resists unsightly blister damage.

Blistering is usually caused by moisture getting behind the paint film—from the shower bath, the laundry and structural defects. Ordinary paint on the outside of a house forms a film that moisture can't get through. This moisture often pushes the paint away from the wood and causes the paint to blister.

The new Du Pont paint system helps to prevent blistering 2 ways:

1. The new primer penetrates deeply and adheres to the surface exceptionally well.
2. "Lucite" is porous enough to allow the moisture vapor inside the wood to escape without causing blisters.

If the present paint on your house is blistering, the old paint film must be completely removed and the bare wood thoroughly sanded. If this is not done, blistering is apt to recur on those sections where the old paint has not been removed.

After completing these steps, apply Blister-Resistant Primer and 1 or 2 coats of "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint. Du Pont tests indicate that this finishing system solves the blistering problem in about 90% of the cases.

When you next paint your house (or a portion of it), be sure you buy or specify "the paint that's worth the work": "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint.

FREE BOOKLET

For free 12-page booklet, "How to Get Extra Years of Beauty from Your Next House Paint Job," see your Du Pont Paint Dealer (he's listed in the Yellow Pages) or write Du Pont Finishes Division, Dept. LM-1, Wilmington 98, Del.

Outstanding Durability, Easy Application, Superior Blister Resistance Can Give Your Home Extra Years of Beauty and Protection

Wilmington, Del.—Du Pont announces a new house paint that can save homeowners hundreds of dollars and make it necessary to paint your house only once a decade.

Called "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint, it is made with acrylic resin, similar to the acrylic resin used so successfully in the longer lasting "Lucite" auto finishes.

Tested for Years

Du Pont research chemists have tested it for years in all kinds of weather. In all parts of the country. These tests proved that, when applied to properly prepared wood or masonry surfaces, "Lucite" will last 50% longer than conventional house paint and also provide excellent resistance to moisture blistering.

To gain these maximum benefits of extra durability and blister-resistance, you should start your painting from a bare wood surface—either new wood or old wood from which the previous coats of paint have been completely removed. Such bare wood surfaces should first be primed with the specially formulated Du Pont Blister-Resistant Primer, followed by 2 coats of "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint.

Performance over previously painted surfaces will be determined largely by the condition of the old paint. It is not possible to assure freedom from blistering, cracking, flaking or peeling unless the old finish is completely removed. If the old finish is definitely firmly adhering, with little or no chalking, good durability can be expected provided that you use 1 coat of Du Pont Blister-Resistant Primer, followed by 2 coats of "Lucite" House Paint. If the old paint is in poor condition (badly eroded and blistered), it should be completely removed by burning or power sanding. Then the 50% longer life can be gained by applying 1 coat of the Blister-Resistant Primer and 2 coats of "Lucite".

Save Hundreds

When you figure the total cost of painting and repainting your house over the years, it's easy to see how you can save hundreds of dollars by using this new paint system. Chances are you'll never have to repeat the priming coat again. And you'll pay just a few extra dollars for all the "Lucite" House Paint you'll need. Most dealers sell it for only about a dollar more per gallon than fine-quality, conventional house paint.

"Lucite" Goes on Fast, Easy... So Simple to Clean Up... And It Dries in 30 Minutes

Never before has an exterior house paint been so easy to apply. The new "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint slips on without effort, and gives a uniform low sheen. The paint stays put... doesn't run or sag. No lap marks show, for it dries evenly, covers surface imperfections. If you need a thinner, just use water.

One of the big advantages of the new Du Pont "Lucite" Acrylic House Paint is its fast drying. It dries in 30 minutes and is ready for a second coat in an hour. You can apply 2 coats in 1 day. Thus you enjoy maximum savings by reducing the amount of time and money necessary to complete the job.

White and 16 smart colors.

"Lucite" Does Wonders for Stucco, Masonry

Du Pont's new "Lucite" House Paint also does wonders for stucco, cement block, brick and stone. On new or unpainted masonry, apply directly 2 coats of "Lucite" for 50% greater durability than ordinary masonry paints. On surfaces previously painted with oil paint that is firmly adhering, 2 coats of "Lucite" should provide similar durability.

For other surface specifications, consult your Du Pont dealer or the booklet offered on this page.

"Lucite" dries to a smooth, low-sheen finish that hides surface imperfections. Its glasslike smoothness wards off dirt, grime and destructive weather. Because of its hard surface, heavy rains wash away surface dirt and grime.

Good Health

Sleep Need Varies for Elderlies

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm a widow 67 years old and would like to know how much sleep I require. I sometimes nap in the afternoon. I go to bed about 1 a.m., and wake at 5 or 6 a.m., drink coffee, then go back to bed but sometimes I can't go to sleep again. What is the cause of this? I've heard people say an older person doesn't require as much sleep.—Mrs. E. S.

It's quite true that many older people do not require as much sleep as when they were younger. And yet some seem to require more. Certainly many get along well on eight hours, and a lot remain perfectly healthy with a good deal less. If you, for example did no napping or resting during the day, you'd probably soon find you required more sleep at night. There's nothing wrong with the way you do it—naps in the afternoon and less sleep at night. The important thing is to get enough sleep so you feel rested and ready to get up again. The coffee may disturb your going back to sleep.

Is it harmful to take garlic water if you think you have high blood pressure?—E. S.

No, if you don't expect it to do any good, either. There's no point in "thinking" you have high blood pressure. Your doctor can tell you.

My 14-year-old son has a nasal drip. The doctor says it is the after-effect of a tonsil and adenoid condition (when he was 7) and not to worry about it as he will outgrow it. But I'm wondering if there's any connection with the nose-bleeds he has been having.—Mrs. K. G.

Nosebleeds usually come from an ulcer, often on the septum or "dividing partition" between the nostrils. If such an ulcer is present, it can be cauterized.

The continued discharge suggests an allergy. There could be polyps (small growths) in the nose, which also can cause bleeding. Nasal polyps, by the way, are common in allergic individuals. Hence my suggestion would be to have the boy examined for the presence of either an ulcer or polyps in the nose.

I noticed a reference in your column to a man who had a skin cancer on the temple, and you told him to get medical help before it was too late.

I sincerely hope he takes your advice. I had a skin cancer on my cheek. After a series of X-ray treatments it is all gone. The total cost to me was $7, as my insurance took care of the rest.—W. M.

It delights me to print occasional samples of cases which work out just the way they ought to. We always hear lots about any case that leads to criticism; we don't often enough bother to mention the majority of cases which result happily. So thank you.

U.S. Textile Leader Hails Import Fight

Bearing Torch for Nation, Canton's Louis Jones Says

Merging Of Electronic Firms Sealed

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of General Instrument Corp. and General Transistor Corp. have agreed in principle to merge, the two firms said Thursday.

The merger, which would create an electronics firm with indicated annual sales in the neighborhood of $60 million, is subject to further investigation and to stockholder approval, they said.

General Instrument's sales for the nine months ended Nov. 30, 1959 were $41,777,875. General Transistor had 1959 sales of $10,278,585.

Wheat Falls 10 Ct. Limit

CHICAGO (AP)—The expiring May wheat future broke the allowable limit of 10 cents a bushel for a single day in the final seconds of transactions on the Board of Trade.

Until then, though, the range had not exceeded above two cents in generally slow dealings. Thus, the deadline slump did not involve more than a sale or two and only a relatively small volume.

More than anything else, it reflected the urgency of liquidation from a trader on the long side of the market who had expected aggressive short covering which did not develop.
